

Rosh Hashanah Message

People Make Peace

Through all the discussions on the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks, through all the ups and downs of the negotiations, it is sometimes easy to forget one essential point: it takes people to make peace.

This was graphically demonstrated in Haifa during Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's recent visit. It was not only that Sadat was cheered in the streets of Haifa as Israelis have been cheered in Cairo and Alexandria. More important was the demonstration of camaraderie between the hundreds of sailors and officers of Sadat's yacht and accompanying ships and Israeli sailors.

Bus loads of Egyptian sailors were taken around the area and then joined Israeli sailors in a program of food and entertainment. "Looking at the faces of my men I can see that they are very happy, satisfied and enjoying every minute of their stay," Admiral Mouhamed Ali Mouhamed, commander of the Egyptian Navy said. His Israeli counterpart, Rear Admiral Zeev Almog, told the Egyptians, "I feel as if we are the ones who are implementing the peace agreement. We met today for the first time and started to talk, and it looks now as if we have known each other for years, as if we are brothers."

Almog was right. When leaders get bogged down in technical points or issues of prestige they sometimes forget who they are making peace for. The meeting of sailors in Haifa demonstrated that if peace is left to the people barriers can sometimes be quickly overcome.
