U.S. ABSTAINS IN 14-0 RESOLUTION

UNITED NATIONS (WNS) -- The Security Council voted 14 - 0 to condemn "the assassination attempts on the lives of the Arab mayors of Nablus, Ramallah and El Bireh." The resolution called "for the immediate apprehension and prosecution of the perpetrators of these crimes" and expressed concern that Israel "has failed to provide adequate protection to the civilian population in the occupied territories."

The resolution also demanded that Israel pay compensation to the victims. The United States abstained although Ephraim Evron, Israel's Ambassador to the U.S., had earlier in the day asked Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie for a U.S. veto. Speaking before the Council vote, Yehuda Blum, Israel's Ambassador to the UN, said Is-

SPECIAL INTERVIEW WITH CYRUS VANCE

BY TRUDE B. FELDMAN

ISRAELITE'S WHITE HOUSE CORRESPONDENT

It was past midnight on March 4, 1979 when President Carter came home from the Middle East. A hero's welcome greeted him at Andrews Air Force Base as he returned in triumph from his historic visit to Jerusalem and Cairo. He had just wrapped up the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

At a microphone, under television lights, the President paused for a moment, then asked Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to join him in receiving the plaudits of the crowd. It was fitting recognition of Vance's contribution to the making of that treaty. Negotiator par excellence, Vance never lost sight of the ultimate objective in obtaining the settlement. According to members of the negotiating teams, he put forward the innovative ideas and hammered out formulations that made possible the first peace treaty between Israel and an Arab country since the Jewish state came into being 32 years ago.

Today, the just-departed Secretary of State singles out that peace treaty as one of the most important accomplishments of his tenure, because, Vance told me in an interview, peace is vital to Israel's future.

The Treaty was signed twelve days later (March 26) on the front lawn of the White House. That evening at the largest State Dinner in White House history, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin paid special honor to Vance. With Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and President Carter flanking him, Begin told 1400 guests seated at tables under a huge tent on the South Lawn: "I would like to pay tribute to a man who is the main foreign policy adviser of the President of the United States, and my friend. He knows all the legal formulations, all the

BEGIN INVITES POPE TO ISRAEL

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Premier Menachem Begin has officially invited Pope John Paul II to visit Israel. In a speech to the Knesset, he noted that the Polish-born Pontiff was one of the "unfortunately few" Catholic clergymen in Poland who had helped save Jews during the Nazi occupation of that country.

Begin's invitation was made after the Pope indicated he would like to visit the Holy Land during a meeting with French Chief Rabbi Jacob Kaplan in Paris. During the 20-minute meeting in a seminary here, Kaplan told the Pope he was pleased with the Catholic Church's new favorable attitude toward Judaism.

The rabbi told reporters later that relations between Jews and Catholics are "excellent" and he was assured by the Pope that the "church firmly condemned anti-Semitism and Nazism."
