35TH ANNUAL SESSION HEARS RUSSIA BLAST THE AGREEMENTS

UNITED NATIONS (WNS) -- The United Nations General Assembly has begun its 35th annual session with a call from the United States for support of the Camp David process and an attack on the Camp David accords as "anti - Arab" by the Soviet Union. "Camp David has proved so far, and remains for the future, the most hopeful and productive avenue to peace in the Middle East," Secretary of State Edmund Muskie said in a speech to the Assembly.

"There is no alternative to negotiations except further conflict. Let us remember that differences are rivers to be crossed, not reasons to turn back." Muskie stressed that the U.S. is "committed to finding a solution to the Palestinian problem in all of its aspects and at the same time to permanent security for the State of Israel. We have no illusions about the difficulties of this quest. We are dealing with a conflict of long duration and in-

President Carter on Camp David

BY TRUDE B. FELDMAN

ISRAELITE'S WHITE HOUSE CORRESPONDENT

(EDITOR'S NOTE: President Carter hails the Camp David Accords as his greatest achievement to date. He marks the second anniversary of their signing by reminiscing about the 13-day summit at Camp David (which led to the Accords) in this exclusive interview with Trude B. Feldman, our White House Correspondent.)

Two years ago, President Carter, Israeli Prime Minister Begin and Egyptian President Sadat flew together from Camp David to the White House. They had just ended a 13 - day Summit in the Maryland mountain retreat, resulting in two agreements -- establishing a framework for peace in the Middle East, and a framework for the conclusion of a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

The two documents, which have become known as the Camp David Accords, were signed by the three leaders in a moving, almost electrifying ceremony in the East Room. Six months later, on March 26, Premier Menachem Begin and President Anwar el Sadat returned to the White House to sign the Peace Treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Since that history - making period at Camp David, Jimmy Carter has spent numerous weekends at the rustic site. When he walks past the cabins which housed Premier Begin and President Sadat, Carter can't help but think about the long and arduous, yet rewarding negotiations, in which he served as the intermediary.

On the eve of the second anniversary of the Camp David Accords -- as his helicopter waited on the South Lawn to take him to Camp David for the weekend -- President Carter sat in the Oval Office and talked about the two years that have elapsed.

In an exclusive interview, he said he looks back on "Camp David" with fond memories as well as with a sense of personal and historical challenge. He reflected on the Accords and what

IRAN, IRAQ WAR POSES BIGGEST THREAT

NEW YORK (WNS) -- The war between Iran and Iraq is more of a threat to delivery of oil to the West than the Arab - Israeli conflict, Israel Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said. Shamir told the Conference of Presidents of Major

American Jewish Organizations that he hoped world public opinion would now understand that even if the Arab - Israeli conflict were settled other disputes on the Middle East would remain to threaten stability in the region. Shamir's remarks were in response to questions following his address to the Presidents Conference, his first appearance before it since be-
