

After the Election

BY SEN. PAUL LAXALT

When I went to Washington nearly six years ago, I promised the people who elected me to the United States Senate that I would undertake three fundamental tasks.

First, I said I would take care of the individual wants and needs of Nevadans -- and my office has done that, providing "casework" services to more than 20,000 constituents.

Second, I promised to protect your pocket-books by opposing inflationary federal spending programs -- and as a result during my first term I voted "no" an awful lot.

Third, I told you I would guard your flanks and keep the federal government off your backs -- and thanks to the Senate's Western Coalition, which I helped found, we've made progress.

Judging by the just-concluded elections, you believe I have kept my promises. I'm thankful for your continued support, and I renew my pledges made six years ago.

As always, Nevadans who have a problem with a federal agency, who can't cut through the multi-colored tape, can get help from one of my offices in Reno, Carson City or Las Vegas.

Also, my voting record in the Senate will continue to reflect the concern of all Nevadans with the preposterous enormity of their government. I'll vote to trim its sails.

And, with the election of a westerner to the White House, I think Nevadans will find more understanding of their unique problems within the executive branch of government.

The next few years promise to be exciting for all of us, as Americans and as Nevadans. This United States Senator looks forward to helping our new president get this country back in the saddle again.

Personally, despite the speculation that popped up during the past couple of months, I have no plans to leave the Senate. It is there that I can do the most good for my state, my country and my president.

The 1980s won't be easy ones for our state or our nation. We've got a lot of illnesses that need to be cured.

But with the election of Ronald Reagan and the election of some new conservative voices in the Congress, I think we've turned a corner.

I'm aware of the trust Nevada voters have placed in me. It is a high honor to be elected to the United States Senate, but to be re-elected perhaps is even better.

Nevadans had six years to look at the job I was doing and they approved of it. I look forward to carrying out their mandate.

Thank you.

BEGIN URGES YOUNG JEWS TO EMIGRATE

NEW YORK (WNS) -- American Jews, especially the young, should make aliya to Israel "by the thousands," Israeli Premier Menachem Begin declared here. He spoke to 621 American Jews, who are committed to immigrate to Israel in 1981 - 82 at a gathering in Hunter College, sponsored by the Israeli Aliya Center and the North American Aliya Movement.

"The greatness of this aliya is its idealism," Begin said, noting that the future olim are leaving the material comforts of America and coming to Israel because of their belief in Zionism and their desire to live in the land of Israel. "My heart is filled with pride," he told his audience. He cautioned the new olim however, that Israel is facing many difficulties -- economic, social and security.

But, he told them they will be coming to Israel to face the challenge of building the country. He added, to applause, "You will build the country in Galilee, in Judaea and Samaria." He pointed out that although peace has been achieved with Egypt, Israel's major adversary, Israel still faces threats to its security. He said that on its eastern front, Israel is confronted by the combined power of 5500 tanks.

He said the people of Israel must always be prepared to defend the country and be prepared to fight "our wars because we don't want others to do it for us." Begin also referred to the danger of "that organization" -- an obvious reference to the Palestine Liberation Organization, that still "strives to liquidate the 'Zionist entity'." "We want you to know the reality before you come to live with us," Begin declared. He said Israel is "a good country to live in" and offers a life with "a sense of mission to its citizens." He said that upon his return to Israel, he will bring the message of this aliya assembly to the people of Israel. "Let more and more come to Israel, following in your footsteps," Begin said. "Let the word get to the thousands of young people in this country." He concluded in Hebrew, "Get up and come to Zion. May God be with you."
