

JEWISH NEWS BRIEFS

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Soviet Jewish Prisoner of Conscience Iosif Mendelevich is in his third month of a hunger strike at the Perm labor camp, according to Soviet Jewry organizations. The 33-year-old Orthodox Jew is the only remaining Jewish prisoner from the 1970 Leningrad trial of a group that planned to steal a Soviet plane to fly to freedom. He began his hunger strike to demand that his religious books and religious articles, confiscated by camp authorities, be returned and that he be allowed to observe the Sabbath. Moscow Jewish activists reported that Mendelevich was forced fed after fasting two weeks and that camp officials plan to repeat the action every ten days.

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- Israeli exports rose by 22.4 percent in 1980 reaching $5.3 billion, the Central Bureau of Statistics announced. The main increase was in industrial exports which rose by 30 percent to $3.2 billion, followed by diamonds 15 percent to $1.4 billion. About half the increase in value was due to dollar inflation.

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- El Al returned to the airways after a 48-hour general strike that grounded its planes throughout the world. The company agreed to reinstate six maintenance workers fired earlier for staging an unauthorized work stoppage. El Al board chairman Avraham Shavit rescinded the dismissal notices under a threat of sympathy strikes by 13 major trade unions that would have brought Israel's entire economy to a halt.
