

JEWISH LEADERS DISCUSS ARAB

concerns and assured them the security and viability of Israel would not be jeopardized by the sale to the Saudis.

Max Fisher, the Detroit industrialist who was honorary co-chairman of the Coalition for Reagan - Bush and was the principal spokesman for the Jewish Republicans after the White House meeting, said he was relieved by the President's statement on the Saudi issue. "We came out feeling relieved," he said. "Reagan states categorically that the balance of power in the Middle East will not be disturbed." But Fisher said, "Some of us felt better, some of us didn't feel quite so good," after the meeting.

Gordon Zacks, of Columbus, Ohio, a Coalition co-chairman, told reporters, "If we had our druthers we'd prefer there not be a sale. But we are reassured and comfortable that the strategic balance will be maintained and that Israel, from a qualitative military security point of view, will emerge stronger than she is going in." George Klein, of New York, also a Coalition co-chairman, said he was "disappointed" by the proposed sale to the Saudis but expressed "hope" that before the Saudi package deal is completed, the matter will be resolved both for the sake of America as well as Israel."

The President also discussed his economic and defense programs with the Jewish leaders and Fisher said "we are convinced we should give him total support and will give him total support." Fisher made it clear that those at the meeting were there as representatives of the Coalition. "We were not representatives of any joint Jewish community effort," he stressed, adding that the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations represents the Jewish community.

EBAN PROMISES EQUALITY

JERUSALEM (WNS)
-- Leaders of Conservative Judaism from the United States, Israel and around the world were promised by former Foreign Minister Abba Eban that if the Labor Alignment wins the June 30 election it will introduce legislation into the next Knesset assuring equality for all segments of Judaism.

Eban, a Labor MK, made this pledge at a reception for the delegates to the 13th convention of the World Council of Synagogues and the 81st annual convention of the Rabbinical Assembly of America. It is the first time the two organizations of the Conservative movement have held a joint convention and the first time either convention was in Israel.

In his opening speech to the convention, Rabbi Seymour Cohen, president of the Rabbinical Assembly, also urged Israelis to give equal status to all movements in Judaism. He said religion should not be a bargaining point for creating coalitions or other political purposes.

JEW'S MOVING TO SUN BELT

NEW YORK (WNS) -- American Jews continue to move from the Northeast to the South and West, according to the 1981 edition of the American Jewish Year Book. The just-published Volume 81, reports that Los Angeles showed the largest gain with 48,000 more Jews than in 1979 for a total of 503,000.

Other substantial gains were reported in Atlanta, Fort Lauderdale, LAS VEGAS, San Diego and Tucson. The book, jointly published by the American Jewish Committee and the Jewish Publication Society of America and edited by Milton Himmelfarb and David Singer, estimates the current Jewish population in the United States at 5,920,900 or 2.7 percent of the total population, an increase of 60,000 over 1979. Sixty nine percent live in the North-west and North Central states, and 31 percent in the South and West.

Dear Friends,

Some people say "Money isn't important," and it isn't for those who have plenty of it. I've noticed though, there's one thing money won't buy and that's poverty.

Over the past 30 years, knowledgeable people have concluded that continuous inflation, now in excess of 12% annually, has proven that the so-called guaranteed or fixed dollar programs, like cash value insurance, government bonds, bank accounts, annuities, etc., only provide a safe way for you to lose your money (i.e., purchasing power).

Sure, it's wise to have some cash on hand for emergencies, plus low cost term insurance, to protect your family. In addition to these basic requirements, we also need to have money invested where we can enjoy:

1. Profits in excess of the inflation rate
2. Safety
3. Liquidity
4. Tax advantages
5. Worldwide marketability

I'd like to show you how "diamond banking" is trouble-free property that meets the above requirements, and why Americans are rapidly turning to wholesale diamond investments to solve their future financial problems.

In the near future most Americans will own at least some investment diamonds for ultimate protection. As a specialist in the field, I want you to know why. Contact me at my office at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Art Burden
