of reporters covering the formal presentation of the new Cabinet to President Yitzhak Navon. Begin said that Sadat had "suggested to President Reagan that the U.S. should start a dialogue with (the PLO)...I understand the President Reagan did not answer in the positive and that Secretary of State (Alexander) Haig answered in the negative."

The American commitment to Israel was "absolutely clear" Begin said, "never to recognize the PLO unless and until" the organization first recognizes Israel and accepts the United Nations Security Council resolutions 242 and 338. Begin cited the PLO foreign minister Farouk Khaddoumi who only recently publicly reiterated the PLO's firm determination never under any circumstances to recognize Israel. "To us its not news; to others it should be a memento..," Begin said.

WEST BERLIN HAS ANTI-SEMITISM

BONN (WNS) -- Anti-Semitic incidents, neo-Nazi activity and the use of violence by rightwing extremists have increase considerably in West Berlin, according to an official report by the local authorities.

The report said that some 500 to 700 West Berliners are members of organized neo-Nazi groups. In the first six months of this year, 71 incidents of violence attributed to extremist elements were reported. In only 29 instances could police identify the persons involved. Among the reported incidents were the desecrations of Jewish cemeteries, anti-Semitic slogans in public places and "a demonstrative use of Nazi symbols." The major neo-Nazi organization in West Germany, the National Democratic Party, conducts its activities underground in West Berlin despite a ban against it imposed by the four allied powers in the city -- the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

The report also described as "especially unscrupulous" a rightwing West Berlin group called the Viking Youth Organization. This group joined with other extremist organizations in staging protest meetings against the screening in Germany in 1979 of American TV series "Holocaust." Another group in the city has made an effort to revive Hitler's Nazi Party and has labelled the Federal Republic a "Jewish Republic."
