

ISRAEL DID NOT SELL IRAN WEAPONS

WASH. (WNS) -- State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said spare parts and tires for American build F-4 fighter-bombers last October to help Iran in its war against Iraq and at a time when American hostages were being held by Iran.

Fischer said, "We have no evidence that any U.S. - origin equipment or spare parts subject to our control has been supplied to Iran by the government of Israel. The government of Israel has been fully informed of our policy on shipment of U.S. origin materials to Iran both in regard to the hostage crisis and the subsequent Iran - Iraq hostilities. We have received assurances from the government of Israel that no military equipment or spare parts subject to U.S. control have been shipped to Iran.

According to a report on ABC News, former Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said in an interview in Paris with ABC that he had been opposed to any deal with Israel but had been overruled by religious leaders close to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. "I was opposed. I said 'if we have to buy arms from the Israelis, why not make peace with the Iraqis? It would be much better'," Bani - Sadr said.

Former Carter Administration officials and diplomatic sources said that the Israelis yielded to American pressure not to continue their military relationship with Iran until the hostages were freed. A spokesman for the Israeli Embassy said his country does not provide information on purchases or sale of weapons.
