BEGIN CONFIDENT PEACE WILL CONTINUE AFTER SADAT'S DEATH

ISRAEL'S HERO DAYAN DIES

PERHAPS ISRAEL'S GREATEST HERO, MOSHE DAYAN, DIED IN THE INTENSIVE CARE SECTION OF TEL AVIV'S TEL HASHOMER HOSPITAL OF HEART FAILURE FRIDAY OCT. 16. HE WAS 66. DAYAN HAD PREVIOUSLY BEEN TREATED FOR CANCER BUT THIS TIME HIS HEART GAVE OUT. HIS HEROICS IN THE FOUNDING OF ISRAEL AS A STATE AND AS A WARRIOR IN ISRAEL'S FIGHT TO RETAIN THAT POSSESSION WILL CERTAINLY PLACE MOSHE DAYAN AS ONE OF ISRAEL'S FOREMOST HEROES, A LEGACY THAT WILL BE REMEMBERED IN HISTORY.

SAUDIS ARE OBSTACLE TO PEACE

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir charged in an address to a Foreign Policy Association luncheon here that Saudi Arabia is a major obstacle to the Camp David peace process. Shamir said, "The first is a fanatic hatred of Jews and Israel that is an integral part continued to supply the P.L.O. both financially and militarily. "The Saudi extremism against Israel and the peace process stems from two, deeply rooted motives, Shamir said. "The first is a fanatic hatred of Jews and Israel that is an integral part

MUBARAK PLEDGES "PEACE FOREVER" WITH ISRAEL

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Premier Menachem Begin returned from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's funeral Oct. 10 in Cairo "strengthened in his hope that the peace process would continue under Hosni Mubarak. Egyptian Vice-President and Sadat's successor, Cabinet Secretary Arye Naor said after the weekly Cabinet meeting here.

Begin reported to the Ministers on his mission to the Sadat funeral, together with Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Interior Minister Yosef Burg. Deputy Premier Simcha Ehrlich, in a radio interview after the meeting, said there was no doubt among the Ministers that Israel must continue with its part in the peace process "as energetically, or even more energetically," than before.

Upon the arrival here of Begin and the Is-

PETS AND ELDERLY. I have, on occasion, expressed the hope that in my next reincarnation I will be a small brown French poodle owned by a suburban Jewish family. As an animal lover (dogs in particular), I regard that as the highest form of existence, replete with love and care. Therefore, I was fascinated by an article by Patricia Curtis in the July 1981 issue of Smithsonian Magazine describing developments in new ways, beyond aiding the blind and deaf, of using animals to help people who need the special qualities which pets have to offer.

Ms. Curtis speaks of pets as "companion animals" thereby conferring upon them (perhaps this was not her intention) a status of "equality," as it were, with humans rather than of inferiority which the term "pet" implies. Lest you think that I have gone meshuga (or to the dogs), he advised that according to Ms. Curtis, "The bond between people and their pets is now the subject of respectable scientific scrutiny." She describes research programs and projects in "pet - facilitated psychotherapy" being conducted under university auspices in psychiatric hospitals and homes for the aged to reach withdrawn, depressed and even senile persons. Further, she states that "recent research suggests to medical and social scientists that companion animals may be good for all of us even perhaps therapeutic in ways we are only beginning to discover.

Significant research on the bond between human beings and companion animals is being conducted at the Center for the Interaction of
