Don Rickles and the Sahara Hotel have made entertainment history together in Las Vegas and the association between the two continues to thrill Las Vegas showgoers. "Mr. Warmth," one of the most popular comedians in the "Entertainment Capital of the World," is a Congo Showroom favorite, but actually got his start in the old Casbar Theatre lounge at the Sahara when it was a popular hangout for other stars after their big shows.

Rickles hammered away at them all night after night in the lounge until his star shined so brightly he moved across the casino and into the Congo Showroom that has showcased some of the entertainment world's biggest names during its 30-year history.

And the hilarious "Mr. Warmth" has finally been recognized for his "class act." The Custom Tailors Guild of America recently voted Rickles one of the ten best dressed men in America.

Rickles' legions of fans know that Don always brings the best in opening acts with him to the Sahara Congo stage and Peaches and Herb rank right up at the top.

This dynamic singing duo continue to be chart busters with their hit song, "Reunited," one of the top songs in the nation during the past year. These romantic singers -- Herb Fame and Linda Green -- are making their Sahara debut and heading for the charts once again with their new MVP/PolyGram Records release, "Sayin' Something!"

Both Washington, D.C., natives, Peaches and Herb are the leading soul duet in the nation today. They were the first Black American group to perform in the People's Republic of China and their song, "I Pledge My Love," was the winner of the 1980 Wedding Song Sweepstakes conducted by Bride magazine. That song was just one of three gold singles and two gold albums to their credit. Two of the top hit singles, "Shake Your Groove Thing," and "Reunited" went platinum as did their album "2 Hot!"

Their hit records and numerous major television appearances make them one of the hottest singing groups in the country today. Combined with Don Rickles, they are part of the hottest ticket in Las Vegas now through December 2. Don't miss this great show!
