

GERSHOM SCHOLEM DEAD AT 84

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Gershom Scholem, one of the foremost Jewish historians of this century whose research into the Kabbalah shed new light on the role of mysticism in Jewish history, died here February 20 at the age of 84.

A lecturer at the Hebrew University since 1925, Prof. Scholem was born in Berlin to an assimilated family but became interested in Judaism at an early age. His absorption with the subject was fanned by his contacts with such writers, scholars and philosophers as Martin Buber, Chaim Nachman Bialik, S. Y. Agnon and Zalman Shazar, who was later to be President of Israel.

The Kabbalah intrigued him. But Scholem found little to guide his research in earlier works. Historians such as Avraham Graetz dismissed the compendium of Jewish mysticism as an accumulation of nonsense while others idealized it unquestioningly.

MUBARAK MUST VISIT JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The Cabinet agreed that Israel would have to forego the scheduled visit of Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak unless he agrees to include Jerusalem on his itinerary. That decision was announced by Cabinet Secretary Arye Naor after Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir briefed his colleagues on his recent three-day visit to Cairo at the Cabinet meeting. While Shamir returned from Egypt with the impression that Mubarak would not go to Jerusalem, negotiations on that matter reportedly were continuing.

Before the Cabinet meeting, Israeli and Egyptian officials denied a Voice of Israel report that Premier Menachem Begin had sent a firm message to Mubarak earlier insisting that he visit Jerusalem or not make the trip.

MILITARY SEALS OFF VILLAGES

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- In what appeared to be an effort to end the 12-day-old general strike by Druze residents of the Golan Heights, armed troops sealed off four Druze villages. The druze are protesting the extension of Israeli civil law to the area. Officially, the measure to seal off the villages was said to be "security reasons" and to prevent local and foreign reporters and leftwing sympathizers and druze supporters from entering the villages for solidarity meetings.

Gen. Amir Drori, commander of Israel's northern command, ordered the four villages sealed off, with entry and exit to and from the areas banned to all except local workers not observing the general strike.

Interior Minister official Yisrael Koenig, in charge of the northern area, met in an unsuccessful attempt to persuade them to cancel the strike. The Druze leaders reportedly told him that they wanted the government to withdraw the Golan Law which they said could not apply to them since they were Syrian citizens. They said they would not carry Israel identity cards nor let their sons serve in the Israel army.
