BURLESQUE IS ALIVE AT SAHARA

The hit new revue, "Burlesque Scandals," is a big success and a bargain, too, in the Congo Showroom of Del Webb's Sahara Hotel and Country Club with 8 p.m. and 12 midnight cocktail shows nightly for only $10 per person, plus tax and tip, weeknights, and $14.50 Saturdays. The minimum includes two cocktails. There are no performances Mondays.

Starring comedy genius Jack Carter, "Burlesque Scandals" has received the universal acclaim of the critics for its perfect blend of old and new in the burlesque format.

For example, there are veteran second bananas Claude Mathis (at the tender age of 82) and Dexter Maitland (now 74) with classic, although updated, skits involving dancers from the show. Then there's voluptuous Liberty West who gets a few helping hands as she plies the provocative art of striptease.

The sexy and exciting Minnie Madden Dancers add the beauty of the chorus lines and electric dance numbers to the show with some very modern production numbers, including the disco finale complete with acrobatics.

Singers Steve Dubov and Nancy Buche round out the solid package of entertainment with their great singing styles.

Star Jack Carter steals the show with his manic routine providing the wit and bite that Carter is famous for. While he exhibits classic skills in timing with some standard burlesque joke material, Carter is also very up-to-date with his hilarious commentary on modern subjects, such as his Falkland Islands routine. Jack is truly a comedy genius.

For the best in old and new burlesque with a unique flair, don't miss "Burlesque Scandals" twice nightly at the Sahara. Call 735 - 4242 for Congo Showroom reservations.
