

LEADERS CALL FOR CEASE FIRE

VERSAILLES (WNS) -- Leaders of the world's largest industrial nations meeting here, appealed to Israel and the Palestinians to "cease-firing simultaneously and end all military activities in Lebanon as well as across the Israeli-Lebanese border."

The seven, who include Presidents Reagan and Francois Mitterrand and the Prime Ministers of Britain, Canada, Italy and Japan as well as the West German Chancellor and representatives of the European Economic Community (EEC), warned that a continuation of the fighting "could have disastrous consequences for the whole area."

Officials of several delegations said the seven regarded the news of the fighting in Lebanon with "serious concern," fearing that a major Middle East conflict could break out unless a cease-fire was rapidly achieved.

Reagan took time away from the formal conference -- at which the economic situation of the West was being reviewed -- to deal with the crisis. He was kept throughout the day informed of the fighting and also conferred with his special envoy to the Middle East, Ambassador Philip Habib who flew to Versailles from London.

Reagan also dispatched a personal appeal to Israeli Premier Menachem Begin urging a halt to military action in Lebanon. European officials said that both Mitterrand and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt urged him to personally intervene to try and stop the fighting before it spreads. Presidential White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Washington had also appealed to the Arab states to use their influence with the Palestinians so that the cease-fire concluded last summer could be renewed.

American sources said Habib is due to leave for Beirut and will try to lay the ground for a new cease-fire agreement. According to unofficial sources, the American envoy will urge the Palestinians and the Lebanese leftist forces to withdraw to a new line to the north which would be out of range of Israeli artillery and beyond the range of their own artillery to pound Israeli settlements in Galilee.

In Cairo, an official spokesman confirmed that Egypt was urging the United States to try and obtain a cease-fire. Mubarak himself told newsmen that the fighting "is certainly not helping the (Mideast) situation."

Mr. Horowitz, who has spend many years in exposing Nazis residing in the United States and who has led a vigorous campaign in combatting cults engaged in shmad (missionary) activities, has served as president of both the Foreign Press Association (1966) and the United Nations Correspondents Association (1981). He was opposed for the latter post by two formidable third world candidates, an Arab representing a Beirut newspaper and a Black African assigned to the UN by a daily in Ghana. Horowitz won by a substantial majority.

On May 11, Mr. Horowitz was inducted as a Fellow in the Jewish Academy of Arts and Sciences

"in recognition of his literary and scientific attainments and important contributions in the special field with which his name is associated thereby adding to the sum total of human knowledge."

The Academy citation was signed by Arthur Goldberg, chairman of the Academy Board, and by Prof. Abraham I. Katsh, President.
