fluence upon the Israelis on granting Palestinian self-determination in the territories. It is clear then that it is on the basis of these promises that the PLO terrorists are leaving Lebanon in a mood of victorious jubilation. They were further happily appeased in being informed that France and Egypt were planning to launch a new Middle Eastern peace plan in which they would have a leading, negotiating role. The aim of the Franco-Egyptian plan is to amend, actually replace, resolutions 242 and 338.

While attempts will be made to win U.S. approval for the new plan, it is doubtful that Washington will agree to any amendments to resolution 242 or to any situation where the PLO will have a role in negotiations for a Middle East settlement. President Reagan and his Cabinet remain adamant for the implementation of the autonomy plan as based upon the Camp David accords consistent with the position of Israel.

During his recent press conference, Reagan referred to the autonomy plan under the Camp David agreement and regretted that the tragedy in Lebanon had delayed Egyptian-Israeli talks. Being goaded by one correspondent who referred only to the shelling and bombing by the Israelis in the hope of receiving a response critical of the the Israelis, the President, fully aware of PLO terrorism, said that he "would like to see an end to the bloodshed and the shelling, but," he stressed, "I must remind you it's also been two-way. The PLO has been the first to break the cease-fire... we want the exodus of the armed PLO out of Beirut and out of Lebanon..."

This is clear enough, and here is where the U.S. stands. Let France and Egypt try to change the ballgame, "the U.S. will not recognize or negotiate with the PLO until the PLO accepts UN Resolutions 242 and 338 and Israel's right to exist," declared President Reagan's deputy press secretary. "We have indicated this must be done in a clear and unequivocal way. The statement by Arafat does not meet those conditions."

Some Americans may fear a shift in U.S. policy vis-a-vis Israel in the aftermath of the Lebanese crisis. Don't believe it, America and Israel have too much in common. Destiny has linked both democracies. Time and again your correspondent has stressed this fact. The enemies of mankind sense this bond, hence their unceasing attacks. Divine Providence, as cited in our Constitution as based upon the Hebrew Bible, will frustrate their evil counsel.

TERMED "COLLABORATORS"

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Two leading Palestinian figures from the West Bank and Gaza Strip accused the Israeli-backed Village Leagues of acting as Israeli "collaborators" and at the same time reiterated support for the PLO as the legitimate representative of the Palestinian people.

"The PLO is the official representative and spokesman of all the Palestinian Arabs wherever they live in the world," said Elias Freij, Mayor of Bethlehem, in an appearance via satellite from Israel on the NBC-

TV "Meet the Press" program. He said the PLO is the accepted representative organization of the Palestinians.

Rashid Shawa, former mayor of Gaza, who was ousted recently from his position by the Israeli authorities, said also that the PLO represented the Palestinian people. In response to a question that Israeli authorities differentiate between the PLO and the Palestinian people, Shawa said that since the PLO represents the Palestinians, "we are part and parcel" of the PLO.
