

STRENGTHENING CHRISTIAN JEWISH RELATIONS

"increasing number of converts to Judaism and what this means to Jewish life." On Tuesday evening, April 12, Dr. Egon Mayer, Associate Professor of Sociology at Brooklyn College, New York, will discuss "Jews by Choice and their Impact on the Jewish Community." Rabbi Stephen Lerner of Teaneck, New Jersey will respond to Dr. Mayer's presentation.

Rabbi Frankel, who serves Am Yisrael Conservative Congregation of North Shore in Chicago, stated that four concurrent workshops had been scheduled on philosophy with Rabbi Gordon Tucker, Assistant Professor of Philosophy at the Jewish Theological Seminary; on Talmud with Rabbi David Gordis, Associate Professor of Talmud and Vice-President of the Jewish Theological Seminary and the University of Judaism in Los Angeles, and a session on theology presented by Dr. Schubert M. Ogden, Professor of Theology at Southern Methodist University.

The final workshop will hear two Dallas Rabbis, Jordan S. Ofseyer, of Congregation Shearith Israel (Conservative) and Jack Bemporad of Temple Emanu-El (Reform) analyze the various aspects of life for Jews in the Bible Belt.

Two nationally prominent Jewish leaders, Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, Englewood, New Jersey, a Vice-President of the World Jewish Congress and Rabbi Joseph Sternstein, Roslyn Heights, New York, immediate past President of the American Zionist Federation, will present differing views on "Israel at the Crossroads" on Monday evening, April 11. Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz of Washington, D.C. will serve as Chairman.

Wednesday evening, a dinner meeting at Shearith Israel will pay a special tribute to the late Abraham Joshua Heschel, noted Conservative Jewish theologian and social action leader. The principal tribute to Dr. Heschel will be given by Dr. Gerson D. Cohen, Chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, New York City.

Earlier in the day the Conservative Rabbis will devote their meeting to a discussion on "Developments in Halachah." Speakers include: Rabbi Kassel Abelson, Minneapolis, Rabbi David Feldman, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Rabbi Phillip Sigal, Grand Rapids.

During the opening day, the RA members will participate in special memorial observances for those Jews lost during the Holocaust as part of the annual Yom Hashoah observance. This ceremony will be held with members of the Dallas Jewish Community. Addressing the meeting will be Rabbi Morris Shapiro of Melville, New York.

TEL AVIV UNIVERSITY
ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- Each year, Tel Aviv University's Overseas Student Program accepts over 300 highly qualified college students from the many Americans and Canadians that apply. Places in the 1983 Summer Session, 1983 Fall Semester and 1983-1984 Year Programs are now being filled and Tel Aviv University will continue to accept applications for these programs until May according to Bluma B. Stoler, Director of Student Programs for Tel Aviv University.

The Overseas Student Program attracts students from a cross-section of colleges and universities because of its outstanding advantages. Participants may choose from over 90 challenging courses taught in English by a distinguished faculty and they can attend for a year, a semester or a summer. With the renowned Shiloah Center for Middle Eastern Studies on Tel Aviv University's campus, students in its Middle East Studies program have a matchless resource. Campus life offers a wide variety of social and cultural opportunities. And Tel Aviv University is perfectly located for touring: just minutes away from cosmopolitan Tel Aviv and in the heart of Israel. Yet with all these features, Overseas Student Program costs are moderate. Applications and further information may be obtained from the Office of Academic Affairs, American Friends of Tel Aviv University, 342 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, (212) 687-5651.
