

TEL AVIV UNIVERSITY CATALOG AVAILABLE

NEW YORK, N.Y.-- "American and Canadian students interested in living and studying in Israel will find Tel Aviv University's 1983 - 1984 Overseas Student Program catalog an invaluable guide to making their best choice," said Bluma B. Stoler, Director of Student Programs for Tel Aviv University, in announcing the catalog's publication. The 72-page, illustrated catalog is available free from the Office of Academic Affairs, American Friends of Tel Aviv University, 342 Madison Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10017, (212) 687-5651.

Written and designed to be clear, concise and factual, the catalog provides detailed information about every aspect of Tel Aviv University's renowned Overseas Student Program for undergraduate and graduate students. Over 80 courses -- taught in English -- in Jewish studies, Israel Studies, Middle East Studies, Business and Labor Relations, the Arts and General Studies are described. Sections on lifestyle, campus life and extra-curricular activities cover the wide range of social, cultural and travel opportunities available to students at Tel Aviv University, located just minutes away from cosmopolitan Tel Aviv and in the heart of Israel.

Tel Aviv University, with an international reputation for academic excellence, offers facilities that include the famous Shiloah Center for Middle Eastern Studies, the Center for Strategic Studies and the Wiener Library. Tel Aviv University's Overseas Student Program makes it possible for Americans and Canadian to combine classroom and field studies at the University for a year, a semester or a summer at moderate cost.

The U.S. - Barbie Connection

The Justice Department's announcement last week that it would conduct "a comprehensive investigation" into allegations that Nazi war criminal Klaus Barbie was employed by U.S. government agencies after World War II and helped by them to escape from Europe is a welcomed development.

The Department had earlier refused to conduct an inquiry, but apparently reversed itself as a result of mounting pressure from the White House and members of Congress who have been deeply disturbed by the reports of U.S. clandestine activities with the Nazis after the war.

Barbie, the former gestapo chief of Lyon, France, is now back in France after his expulsion from Bolivia where he had lived comfortably since his escape from Europe. Soon after he arrived in France, to face trial on charges of "crimes against humanity," a flurry of reports alleging U.S. involvement with him surfaced in the U.S. and France.

Charles Allen, Jr., an internationally prominent authority on surviving Nazi war criminals, wrote that Barbie "was aided in his escape from Europe in late 1949 and early 1950 by the Vatican, the U.S. Army's Counter Intelligence Corps (CIC) and the International Red Cross. Allen said he obtained his information from various documents, including the State Department's "which detailed Barbie's movements since his first utilization by the CIC in 1947 until his expulsion from Bolivia 36 years later."

Further corroboration of Allen's charges came from Dr. Erhard Dabringhaus, a faculty member at Wayne State University in Detroit, who said he had been Barbie's "case officer" with the CIC in 1948, the year that Barbie was said to have been paid a sum of $1,700 as an employee of the CIC.

Then there is the connection of Barbie with the CIA, according to Nazi hunter Serge Klarsfeld. He said that the CIA not only employed Barbie as a special agent but enabled him to flee to Latin America by granting him a "temporary travel document" registered under the name of Klaus Altman, the name under which he illegally obtained Bolivian citizenship in 1952.

There are other startling revelations, including a report that Barbie had boasted of his travels in the U.S. while on the payroll of the CIA, all as deeply appalling to the senses of Americans who are outraged that the U.S., for whatever reason, would harbor and work with a Nazi war criminal.

This is the first time the U.S. will attempt to make an investigation into the intricacies of the alleged U.S. - Barbie connection. Americans should expect a thorough and wide-ranging inquiry with no stone left unturned.

STRESSED OUT, OVER-WEIGHT, AND OUT OF SHAPE?

Are you stressed out, over weight, and out of shape? If so, Valley Hospital Medical Center has some good advice to share with you during the third annual Good Health Management Seminar which is free to the public and designed to help you live a more healthy life. These seminars are scheduled for two evenings, Monday and Tuesday, April 11 and 12 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Valley Hospital Staff Development Department which is located upstairs in the 650 Medical Building behind the Emergency Department.

To register for this community service program, call Valley Hospital at 385-3011, ext. 2260. Class space is limited, so please register early.

Day one of the Good Health Management Seminar features nutrition and exercise. Robyn Atkinson, a Registered Dietician, will speak on "Sugars, Salts, and Fad Dieting." She will be assisted by Ellen Schuster from the Cooperative Extension Program who will speak on adapting a "Behavior Modification Program" for an alternative approach to eating. Sharing the program with the dieticians will be Terry Allen, Supervisor of the Cardiac Rehabilitation Program at Valley Hospital. He will speak on the different types of exercise, how to determine what type of exercise is healthy for the individual, and the effects of exercise on the body.

Day two of the seminar features medications and mental health. Michele Bonnee, R.N., and Linda Anderson, Registered Pharmacist, will discuss the interactions of food and other drugs on various medications, how to take certain medications, side effects, and helpful hints for elderly people taking various medications. It is important to set up proper eating and exercise habits, but if you don't understand how the everyday stresses of life affect you, diet and exercise may not be enough. Ellie Finch, R.N., a specialist in Psychiatry from Valley Hospital, will conclude the Good Health Management Seminar with a talk on "Stress Management."

A special Good Health Management packet will be given to everyone attending this two-day seminar. For more information on these programs, call Valley Hospital at 385-3011, ext. 2260 and ask for Michele Bonnee, Coordinator for Community Programs.
