BLACKJACK TOURNAMENT AT DI

Burton M. Cohen, president of the Desert Inn and Country Club, announced one of the world's biggest gaming events, the $350,000 Desert Inn Blackjack Open, scheduled June 5-9 at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas.

Based on a unique non-elimination format created by Casino Marketing International, Inc. of Los Angeles, the tournament allows players to compete in all three rounds for cash awards totaling $180,000 and other prizes including a 1983 Cadillac Eldorado, 31 fabulous vacation awards and hundreds of other valuable gifts and prizes.

Cohen pointed out that, because of the non-elimination format, some lucky competitor could drive home with the entire $180,000 in cash and the new Cadillac!

Players who register by May 1, 1983 also qualify for a special $50 early-entrant discount on the Round I registration fee. In addition, the early entrant who accumulates the most winnings during the three preliminary rounds will be awarded the 1983 Cadillac Eldorado.

Cohen explained that each round will consist of exactly 100 hands. This insures complete fairness because every participant is dealt the same number of hands. The player who accumulates the highest total of table winnings, excluding prize money, will be awarded the title "Cumulative Table Winner" and automatically advance to the Championship Playoff together with the winners of Rounds I, II and III to vie for $75,000 in cash.

Cohen said that the Desert Inn will provide a special reduced room accommodation package for tournament players, subject to availability.

The deadline for entering the $350,000 Desert Inn Blackjack Open by mail is May 30, 1983. Contestants may also register in person at the Desert Inn or in CMI's Los Angeles offices until June 5. CMI will also accept registration by telephone with Visa or MasterCard until June 5.

REAGAN'S DECISION TO HOLD UP F-16'S ANGERS ISRAELI OFFICIALS

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Israeli officials here were sharply critical of an assertion by President Reagan that he will not approve the scheduled delivery of 75 F-16 jet fighters to Israel until Israel withdraws its forces from Lebanon where the Israelis are "in the position of occupying another country." Reagan said the U.S. is "forbidden by law" to ship the planes to Israel, but he did not say whether Israel had violated the terms of its arms sales agreements with the U.S. under which American weapons can be used only for defensive purposes.

Nevertheless, Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said the President's remarks were "very regrettable." Shamir maintained that the U.S. knows "very well that we entered Lebanon to defend ourselves from the murderous attacks of the Palestinian terrorists who were using Lebanon as their base." An unidentified Foreign Ministry official called Reagan's statement "most unfortunate" because "the notion that our forces are in occupation is erroneous because our action against the Palestine Liberation Organization was an act of legitimate self defense."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Alan Romberg stressed to reporters that the President's remarks did not mean he has determined that Israel's operations into Lebanon violated the law of the arms agreement between the two countries. He added, however, that while Israeli forces remain in Lebanon "concerns arise as to whether it will be consistent with the spirit of the law" to go ahead with the delivery of the aircraft.

Reagan's action is not without precedent. After Israel bombed Iraq's nuclear reactor in 1981, the President held up delivery of 14 F-16s and two F-15s, informing Congress that Israel might have violated the arms sales agreements. In June 1982, when Israel invaded Lebanon and conducted daily bombing raids on Beirut, the Administration held up the delivery of 75 F-16s which are now at issue. The aircraft had been promised to Israel in 1978 to compensate for U.S. weapons sales to Egypt, Jordan and Saudi Arabia. The Administration has since refrained from giving Congress formal notification of the sale, as required by law before the planes can be delivered. The planes are due for delivery in 1985, and there was no indication whether the delay in formal notification of Congress will have any effect on the delivery date.
