AMSTERDAM HAS THIRD JEWISH MAYOR

AMSTERDAM (WNS) -- Amsterdam, capital of The Netherlands and its second largest city, will have its third Jewish Mayor in succession over a period of six years. He is Ed Van Thijn, 48, who will succeed Willem Polak when he retires next month. The Mayors of Dutch cities are appointed by the government.

Van Thijn, like all of his predecessors since the end of World War II, is a member of the Labor Party (PVDA). Born in Amsterdam, he became a municipal councilor in 1962 and a member of Parliament in 1967. He was elected chairman of the Labor Party's Parliamentary faction in 1981 and served for seven months as Minister of Interior.

Van Thijn freely acknowledges his Jewish ancestry. But he is not associated with any Jewish organization and, in recent years, has been a strong critic of the Israeli government of Premier Menachem Begin which he considers reactionary. He stated, in an article written two years ago, that as a Jew he feels solidarity with all minority groups in Holland and elsewhere.

READER'S DIGEST JUNE ISSUE

The 1981 World Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors in Jerusalem is described through the experiences of one of its organizers, Fred Diamant, in the June issue of Reader's Digest.

Diamant, a survivor of Auschwitz and the Death March, attended the Gathering with his wife, Ilse, a survivor of Maidanek, along with 6000 other survivors of concentration camps during World War II.

Diamant would not be one of the Jews to reunite with missing kin -- he knew they were dead -- but he was unprepared for the force of the memories that came over him of the fellowship, caring and friendship extended by the prisoners for one another.

The article, written by Rena Dicter LeBlanc, concludes: "The Gathering was an agonizing reminder of the depths of human depravity. But for the Diamants and for thousands of others, it was a reminder, too, that the Nazis lost not only a war of guns, tanks and bombers; they lost the war they waged against the human spirit."

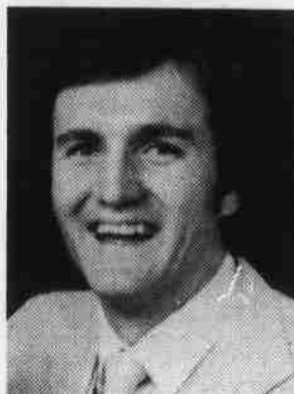

Hundreds of homeless cats and kittens will be at The Meadows Mall on Saturday and Sunday, June 11 and 12, 1983 during the ADOPT-A-KITTEN FAIR. These adorable animals will be anxiously waiting to be adopted. The Nevada Animal Society, providing these furry little creatures (free of charge), will award official adoption papers to all people opening their homes. The ADOPT-A-KITTEN FAIR will be held at The Meadows Mall in Center Court during regular mall hours.
