ween them and the air is charged with anticipation. What's next? the audience wonders, surprised at the spontaneity of Christopher. What is next is never a disappointment, thanks to the showmanship of Christopher, who started in the music business while very young and has not missed a lesson in the years since.

Paul Christopher is better known in Canada where he won the du Maurier Search for Talent and has appeared on major TV shows. He made his Las Vegas debut at the Silverbird in 1979 to rave reviews, but it has taken four years to lure him south again. As word spread of his return for this limited engagement, many old fans are joining new ones in enjoying his high energy performance.

With him from Canada he brought two of the finest musicians to ever play a lounge in Las Vegas, Harris Todman on steel drums and percussion and Mario Pietro Monaco on drums. Two excellent sidemen with too many credits to list joined him here, Ed "Cocho"
