

Charleston Heights Arts Center Dinner

Marjorie Barrick makes acceptance speech as Miss America, Debra Sue Moffett and Art Hamm look on.

One of the glamour events of the spring charity dinner season was held March 18 at Neiman-Marcus when the Friends of the Charleston Heights Arts Center and KVBC-TV held a dinner and salute to the dance in the store after closing hours.

A cocktail party with an art exhibit depicting the dance, a display of $5 million in rubies and emeralds and music by Los Angeles pianist Jere Ring on a $65,000 Bosendorfer piano started the festivities.

A gourmet dinner starting with salmon mousse and finishing with crepe suzettes and venetian cream was followed by entertainment by Peggy Ryan and her TNT Dancers, the UNLV Solaris dancers and presentations to local personalities who have made contributions to the dance.

Performer Jim Stafford and singer Debra Sue Maffett gave engraved sterling dishes to Marjorie Barrick, Jim Keller and Jeanne Roberts.

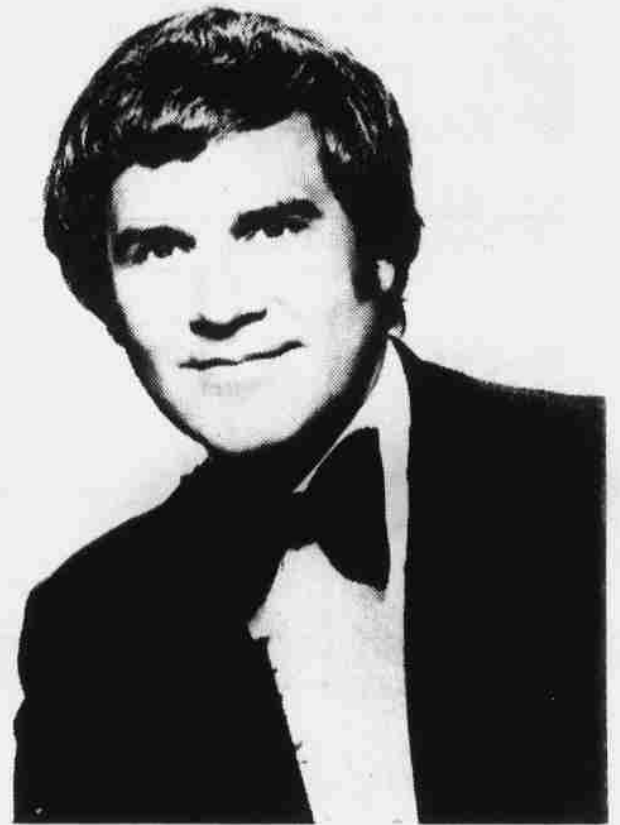

Celebrity Roast At MGM

Dean Martin, host of the Dean Martin Celebrity Roast recently taped by NBC at the MGM Grand, shows that Mr. T of "The A-Team" is no match for him when it comes to hand-wrestling. The next subject expected to be roasted at the MGM Grand is Burt Reynolds, date to be announced (Las Vegas News Bureau photo)

Special guest Donald O'Connor was introduced by master of ceremonies, MGM "Jubilee" star Gary Marshall. Angie Wallin, president of the Friends of Charleston Heights Arts Center and Rolla Cleaver, vice president and general manager of KVBC-TV 3 and general chairmen Arlene Peikoff Blue and Larry Hart greeted the 240 guests at the conclusion of the evening.
