

Dine Fears Continued Anti-Israel Policies No Matter Who is President

WASHINGTON (WNS) — Thomas Dine, executive director of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC), warned that despite the "upbeat" feeling in the United States-Israel relations there is a "sense of foreboding" that no matter who is elected President in November, anti-Israel policies will once again be pressed in Washington.

This is because a "perverted" peace process will be resurrected, Dine told the 1,000 persons attending AIPAC's 25th annual policy conference at the Washington Hilton Hotel. He said it would not make any difference whether the next President is Ronald Reagan again or former Vice President Walter Mondale or Sen. Gary Hart (D. Col.), all of whom he said have "authentic pro-Israel beliefs."

"In the past few years, the real and noble process that began at Camp David has been put aside and the term 'peace process' has been expropriated as a code word for a different policy that actually consists of tilting towards the Arabs and deliberately provoking tensions with Israel," Dine charged.

He predicted this "peace process," unlike the one in which the late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat agreed to sit down and negotiate with Israel, would begin "with another round of wishful thinking" about King Hussein of Jordan "by advisors and experts who predictably will assert that if only the United States offers him enough promises and weapons and pledges of pressure against Israel then, maybe, he will consent to consider a negotiation. This, only after his preconditions are met."

Dine said that a second step would follow which would be to try to bring the Palestine Liberation

Organization in support of Hussein with "more secret negotiations with the PLO" in violation of U.S. commitments to Israel and with promises to Yasir Arafat that Jerusalem would be "negotiable." He said this would be followed by "gestures" to Syria and the Soviet Union "to gain their permission to let Arafat allow Hussein to negotiate."

Arens: Egypt is Preparing to Violate Military Terms of Israel-Egypt Peace Treaty

TEL AVIV (WNS) — Egypt is preparing to violate the military terms of the Israel-Egyptian peace treaty by building a military infrastructure in Sinai sufficient for an entire field army, Defense Minister Moshe Arens charged in a radio interview. He said that while the military annex to the 1979 peace treaty does not define the limits of the infrastructure Egypt can build in Sinai, it limits Egyptian deployment of troops on the peninsula to a single division. According to Arens, the Egyptians are building facilities for an army of at least four divisions.

The Gift of Sight

Israelis with serious visual impairments are helped to read, study, work and travel independently by means of special optical devices at Israel's newest medical facility — the Low Vision Clinic of the Jewish Braille Institute of America — situated at the Tel Aviv Medical Center. This patient is being tested by Dr. Max Popper, clinic director, for visual acuity while wearing telescopic lenses, one of a number of special devices to help patients with lack of central vision, tunnel vision, severely limited sight or other ailments that cannot be helped by standard ophthalmological procedures. Philip Rosen of New Rochelle, N.Y. chairs the JBI's Low Vision Clinic Committee.
