WOMEN'S AMERICAN ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) began 104 years ago to help young and adult Jews, part of the continuing Diaspora, become productive citizens of their new lands. Over 2 million people have passed through ORT's vocational and technical schools in France, England, Morocco, Israel, Italy, Argentina, and other countries. Here in America, New York City is proud of its state-accredited Bramson School specializing in computer technology. By 1986 our west coast will boast of the Los Angeles ORT Training Institute. There are three ORT Chapters in Las Vegas and a fourth soon to be chartered in Green Valley. Annual dues are only $15. Any woman interested in maintaining ORT's lofty goals — education, Jewish survival and human rights — and meeting other such dedicated women is welcome to join. For more information, please contact Fran Sanoff, President of the Las Vegas Area Council (457-0876) or Florence Bloom, President of the Las Vegas Chapter (734-7689).
