Cabinet Debates West Bank Settlement Move And Anti-Settlement Rally

JERUSALEM (WNS) — The surreptitious enlargement of the Jewish area in heavily Arab populated Hebron in the West Bank and a rally of several dozen Israeli opponents of settlements, touched off some mild debate at the weekly Cabinet session in which the incidents were related to the lumbering pace of negotiations for a new government. Four caravans of Jews arrived without advance notice the night of August 8 at a hilltop inside Hebron overlooking the old Jewish cemetery, and four families of Jews arrived to occupy the caravans. The settlers said their action was made with the approval of Defense Minister Moshe Arens. They said the sudden and secret act was meant to bar the Supreme Court from acting to stop the move. The caravans were parked on the Tel Rumeida Hill, on a half acre which belonged to the Jewish community of Hebron before the 1929 massacre of Jews. Interior Minister Yosef Burg, Energy Minister Yitazhak Modai and Trade and Industry Minister Gideon Patt, said they wanted more information about the timing of the action, coming as it did during talks for a national unity government. They said they also wanted to know more about whether the Ministerial Settlement Committee was planning more settlements. Other ministers asked why the army permitted an anti-settlement rally by members of the Citizens Rights Movement (CRM) at the Hebron settlement the night of August 11. Arens replied that the demonstrators had moved along the Jerusalem-Hebron road, concealing their posters until they were assembled. The demonstration, which included several dozen CRM members, was only a few yards from the four parked caravans.

Portugal: No Country Has Asked For Trifa's Extradition

PARIS (WNS) — Portuguese officials said that they have received no request from any country for the extradition of Rumanian Orthodox Archbishop Valerian Trifa who was deported from the United States for his role in the fascist Iron Guard that killed thousands of Jews during World War II. Trifa arrived in Lisbon with a short-term visitor's visa and has applied for a permanent resident's permit. The officials said "Portugal will apply the law," but added that for the time being there are no legal obstacles for Trifa's stay there. Portuguese officials said they were unaware of Trifa's Iron Guard activities when they agreed to let him enter, but that they will investigate his past. Since entering Portugal, Trifa has denied any involvement in the pogrom in Bucharest in January, 1941.

Rumanian Chief Rabbi Moses Rosen said that Rumanian Jews are "deeply grateful to the American government for having at long last exposed Trifa's past and expelled him." Rosen, who began a campaign against Trifa in 1961, also thanked the Rumanian government and the Rumanian Orthodox Church in Bucharest for constantly backing the demands for Trifa's exposure.
