Ever wonder what it would be like to blow up a balloon - one that holds 80,000 cubic feet of air? The opportunity to find out is being offered to Las Vegans next month at the Nevada national championship hot air balloon races.

Volunteers are needed to ground crew for the scores of out of town balloon pilots who will be here for the October 26-28 event. No experience is necessary; training will be provided by the North Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, according to chamber executive director, Ellen Frehner. The balloon rally is the feature attraction of the annual chamber-sponsored Fairshow. For more information, phone 642-1944.
