

Plans For Israel's Withdrawal From Lebanon Discussed

TEL AVIV (WNS) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin is holding a series of intensive discussions and debates with senior general headquarters officers, officials and others dealing with military affairs in Lebanon and the West Bank. Rabin also met with UN Under-Secretary

General Brian Urquhart on the future of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL), the peacekeeping force in south Lebanon whose mandate expires in October. Urquhart was in Damascus where he met with Syrian Vice President Abdel Halim Khaddam. He had earlier visited Beirut after a short visit to Israel to which he now returned. Rabin has expressed the hope that UNIFIL can, under an expanded mandate, play a role in maintaining order and security in the region, alongside the Israel-supported South Lebanon Army, in order to enable the Israel Defense Force to withdraw speedily from south Lebanon. Rabin told the opening of the annual United Appeal fund-raising campaign on Sept. 16 in Jerusalem that he thought an Israeli withdrawal from south Lebanon could be accomplished "not in terms of years, but in a much shorter period of time," but he did not commit himself to any timetable.

Defense Ministry sources stressed that the various plans the general headquarters has shown Rabin are options and contingency plans drawn up over recent months, and are not new proposals made since the establishment of the national unity government. They do not

Netanyahu New Israel Ambassador To U.N.

JERUSALEM (WNS) — Binyamin Netanyahu, Minister at the Israel Embassy in Washington, has been appointed Israel's Ambassador to the United Nations and will head the Israel delegation at the General Assembly under Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir. Netanyahu will succeed Yehuda Blum, who last June concluded six years as Israel's representative to the world body.

The appointment of Netanyahu was officially announced after the first weekly Cabinet meeting of the newly installed unity government. Acting Cabinet Secretary Michael Nir said the appointment was endorsed unanimously. It is believed in political circles here that Shamir was prompted to appoint Netanyahu by the young diplomat's patrol and mentor, Minister-Without-Portfolio Moshe Arens. It was Arens who brought Netanyahu, then 33 years old, from an executive position in industry into government service as Minister in Washington when Arens was named Ambassador there in 1982.

Born in Israel in 1949, and educated in the United States, Netanyahu is the younger brother of Yonothan Netanyahu, the Israel Defense Force commander who led and was killed in the Entebbe rescue operation in 1976.

Jewish War Veterans Auxiliary 711 Wins Award

The Charles T. Kandell Ladies Auxiliary of the Jewish War Veterans 711 were the proud winners of The Senior Citizens Plaque for the third consecutive year at the National Convention of the Jewish War Veterans and their Ladies Auxiliary which was held in Washington, D.C. last week.

The Auxiliary was also awarded a blue ribbon for making the National Honor Roll for their work in the community. A Membership ribbon was also won.

Kay Lingaton, who represented the Auxiliary, was elected to the National Memorial Shrine Committee and was appointed to serve as National V.A.V.S. Deputy for the fourth consecutive year.

Members receiving citations for their work at the local V.A.C. clinic were Bebe Levy, Reba Isler, Shirley Engler and Marion Yarchever. President of local Auxiliary Esther Hasselson received a membership heart for the many members she brought in. Mrs. Lingaton attended the dedication of the new memorial shrine for the Jewish heroic dead which had Vice President Bush attending. Mrs. Jeanette Schneider was elected National President for 1984-85.
