

U.S. And Israel Are Mum On Joint Military Move

TEL AVIV (WNS) — The Israel Defense Force and the U.S. Embassy here have declined to comment on reports that the Israeli and U.S. navies are engaged in a joint anti-submarine exercise in the eastern Mediterranean.

An IDF spokesman said that "in principle, the IDF does not report on movements and exercises." The only previous instance of U.S.-Israel military cooperation, which occurred last June, was the practice evacuation by American helicopters of 46 "wounded" marines from a U.S. Navy vessel in Haifa to hospitals in Haifa and Tel Aviv.

At that time, Washington reportedly expressed displeasure over the extensive Israeli press coverage of the exercise which also tested communications between the U.S. Sixth Fleet and Israeli authorities and the capabilities of Israeli air traffic control.
