

Shiite Villages In South Lebanon Under Curfew

TEL AVIV (WNS) - Several Shiite villages in the area of Tyre, south Lebanon, were placed under curfew after two Israeli soldiers were slightly wounded in a small arms attacks on their convoy east of Tyre. Another attack on an Israel Defense Force truck near Tyre caused no casualties.

The IDF, operating with the South Lebanon Army (SLA), detained 14 residents of the villages for questioning in connection with recent attacks on IDF and SLA soldiers.

Meanwhile a spokesman for the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) corrected an earlier report by UNIFIL that two Lebanese civilians were killed and 14 wounded when Israeli troops entered a Shiite village in search of terrorists. According to the spokesman, the two men were killed in a family quarrel.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Murphy was back in Israel and he met with Defense Minister Yitzhak

Rabin at the latter's Tel Aviv office to report on his recent visits to Damascus and Beirut. Minister-Without-Portfolio Moshe Arens, a former Defense Minister, was present at the meeting along with Chief of Staff Gen. Moshe Levy and senior Foreign Ministry and Defense Ministry officials.

Murphy apparently had no progress to report on efforts to break the deadlock in the Israeli-Lebanese talks at Nakura on withdrawal and security. Murphy leaves shortly for Egypt and Jordan and is expected to return to Israel.

The 10th meeting of the Israeli and Lebanese negotiating teams at Nakura was postponed because bad weather

Technion Receives The International Award Of Learning And Research

HAIFA — The Technion-Israel Institute of Technology was recently presented with the 1984 award of Learning and Research by the International Institute for Promotion and Prestige. The prestigious award was presented by Mrs. Giesele Rutman, President of the Executive Committee of the International Institute to the President of the Technion, Professor Josef Singer during Technion's 60th anniversary celebrations. The International Institute makes this presentation once a year to an outstanding institution in an industrialized country.

The International Institute for Promotion and Prestige was founded in Geneva over twenty years ago, and in conjunction with organizations all over the world, has devoted itself to Science, Technology and Culture. "Our organization's goal is to identify, promote and stimulate the work of those who aspire toward a more positive and peaceful world, through humanitarian, cultural, scientific or industrial activities," said Mrs. Giesele Rutman at the ceremony.

In a message sent by telegram, Professor Maurice Levy, President of the Scientific Commission of the International Institute, said, "Technion has contributed to making Israel industries reach the rank of among the most advanced in the world."

The Technion is celebrating its sixtieth year. It has graduated over 25,000 engineers, scientists, physicians and architects, whose contributions have made Israel a world center for scientific research and highly advanced technological industries. The Technion is essential to the continuing development of high-tech industry and defense in the country. Since it opened sixty years ago, the Technion has been an integral part of the engineering and scientific growth of Israel.
