Who Is The American Medical Support Flight Team

The A.M.S.F.T. is a non-profit volunteer pilot association which provides free air transportation to America's health care agencies, blood banks, donor organ recipients, the needy and low income individuals with health care problems. We have 30 chapters across the United States. In our local Las Vegas chapter we have 52 volunteer pilots who donate their time for the altruistic value of public service to the community. Some of the local agencies we work with extensively are the United Blood Service, in which we fly blood to and from local hospitals. We work with the Candlelighters (a group of parents of children with cancer who help one another.) We fly these children to treatment centers. Along with the emotional support we offer them, we take away the exorbitant cost of the Commercial Airlines. Most people cannot afford that cost along with the medical expenses they have. Opposed to a Commercial Airline, we have no set flight schedule so we provide more expeditious service.

There is absolutely no charge for any of our services. If an individual or organization, is determined to have a legitimate need for the services of A.M.S.F.T., then they are provided free of charge. Monies are raised through private donations and public support. Since no pilot receives any financial remuneration for his or her services, the monies go to benefit only the organizations and the people we serve. We, the A.M.S.F.T., pick up the cost of the airplanes and the fuel.

As of last month, November 1984, A.M.S.F.T. has been temporarily grounded from a lack of funds. We are an IRS 501 (C)(3) tax exempt federally registered charitable organization and all donations to us are tax deductible. Any and all contributions are deeply needed and greatly appreciated.

Efforts To Save ATA Textile Mills

TEL AVIV (WNS) — Government-appointed receivers are trying to maintain production at the ATA textile mills on Haifa Bay to improve the chances of finding a buyer for the giant textile combine, the largest single employer in the Haifa area.

A Haifa District Court has ordered the Cotton Marketing Board to continue selling ATA raw cotton. The Board has refused so far because of an outstanding debt of nearly $2 million.

ATA, once a showpiece of private industrial enterprise in Israel, with plants on Haifa Bay and in Galilee, went into bankruptcy following the loss of its largest overseas customer. The receivers appointed were given the task of preserving the business and the jobs of its 8,000 employees. Normally, receivers preside over the liquidation of an enterprise to ensure maximum reimbursement of its creditors.
