The Silver State Chapter of the Independent Telephone Pioneer Association recently donated a teletype machine to the Clark County Court House.

What's special about the machine is that it can handle messages to and from deaf southern Nevadans. Now, by dialing 385-7486, deaf Nevadans who have a teletype writer for the deaf can communicate directly with the courthouse.

The courthouse, in turn, can also talk to deaf individuals using its new machine.

This teletype machine, configured for deaf individuals, is the seventeenth such machine donated by the Pioneers within the past couple of years.

The machines are several years old, however, they take on new life thanks to the efforts of retired telephone company employees.

Pioneers raise month throughout the year for projects such as this.
