

Pete Barbutti Now Playing
At The Landmark

Comedian Pete Barbutti was born at a very early age and was raised in Scranton, Pennsylvania. He began his musical career at age eleven when he started taking accordion lessons. While still in high school, he performed with the University of Scranton Band and the noted Scranton Philharmonic Orchestra. At the same time, he also operated two accordion schools; one in Carbondale and the other in Honesdale, Pennsylvania and earned extra spending money playing at Polish and Italian weddings.

After finishing high school, he served with the Army Reserves where he became head arranger and assistant conductor for the 79th Division Band.

He then formed his own group, a musical-comedy-vocal quartet called, "The Millionaires" which toured the country for six years, settling in Chicago for one year and then in Las Vegas where "The Millionaires" quickly became the favorite of many Las Vegas Strip celebrities.

After two years in Las Vegas, the group disbanded and Pete began his career as a stand-up comic, working first in Spokane and then in Seattle, Washington for a full year; the year of the World's Fair.

It was during that time that Steve Allen saw a locally produced video tape of Pete and immediately booked him as a regular guest on his popular late night show; the first of more than five hundred network shows.

One of those shows was seen by Nat King Cole who signed him for an extended concert tour as an opening act. The tour lasted two years.

Next came Arthur Godfrey's discovery of Pete and a long stint as a regular on Godfrey's famous radio show.

Pete moved back to Las Vegas where he regularly performs in lounges and main showrooms.

A testament to his comedic genius is the fact that he was voted "Lounge Act Of The Year" in Las Vegas in 1974 and "Best Comedic Opening Act" in Atlantic City in 1984.

Pete Barbutti's comedy is universal, funny and original and he's more than just a comedian. He is also the consummate musician excelling on B-Flat Tenor Broom and jazz Cigar.

Some comics rely on written material, others need a visually engaging personality and a few are blessed with a sharp mind that enables them to be naturally funny. Pete Barbutti's act is a brilliant mixture of all three. He is now at the Empire Showroom of the Landmark. Two shows nightly.
