Andy Kuzupas, right, accepts a check for $25,000 from Brian Bulmer, Slot Manager of the Imperial Palace. Kuzupas, of Euclid, Ohio, lined up three 7's on the dollar progressive machine, recently.

Andy Kuzupas lined up four 7's on a progressive dollar slot at the Imperial Palace and took a check for $25,000 home to Euclid, Ohio. Kuzupas, who says he really feels lucky, comes to Las Vegas once a month and to Atlantic City every week.

He was playing the dollar carousel September 5th and decided to switch to the machine next to him. He put in $3 just three times before winning the jackpot.

Instead of calling his wife in Ohio, Kuzupas said he'd rather surprise her with the check when he got home.

Falasha Families Enter Second Stage Of Absorption Process

NEW YORK (WNS) — Some 700 Ethiopian Jewish families have now begun to enter the second stage of their absorption process in Israel and will by February be in permanent housing accommodations outside the absorption centers, according to a senior Israeli official involved in Ethiopian absorption.

The official described this development as of substantial significance inasmuch as "most of the families are still in absorption centers" since having arrived in Israel after fleeing their homes in Ethiopia in past years. More than 2,000 families remain in at least 30 absorption centers used exclusively for newly arrived Ethiopian Jews.

"Perhaps the best proof that Ethiopians are being well absorbed in Israel is that they already know where they want to go and where they want to live," said Chaim Aron, head of the immigration and absorption department of the Jewish Agency and the WZO.

Aron spoke with reporters during a breakfast briefing on recent developments in the Ethiopian Jewry absorption process, sponsored by the United Jewish Appeal and the Israel Aliya Center of North America. Aron is in the U.S. having attended the just concluded two-day meeting in Washington of the International Council of the World Conference on Soviet Jewry.
