Jews Win Nobel Prizes

Hadassah Community College Producing Israel's First Engineers In Ecology

Jerusalem...A physician at the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center's Margulies Osteoporosis Center, tests the prototype of a new device which utilizes low-level gamma ray radiation to measure bone density. The device developed by the Medical Center and scientists at Hebrew University's Racah Institute of Physics, provide a highly accurate measure of the effects of various treatments for osteoporosis, a debilitating bone disease which physicians say strikes about one-third of all women at some point in their lifetimes.

JERUSALEM — Eleven students at the Hadassah Community College here will soon

NEW YORK (WNS) — Three American Jewish scientists have been awarded Nobel Prizes for 1985. They are Profs. Joseph Goldstein and Michael Brown, both of the University of Texas, sharing the Prize for Medicine and Physiology; Prof. Franco Modigliani of MIT, for Economics.

Joseph Leonard Goldstein, 45, was born in Sumter, S.C. to Isidore and Fannie Goldstein. He had been to Israel several times in connection with the medical research he and Brown had been collaborating on at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas.

Michael Stuart Brown, 44, was born to Harvey and the late Evelyn Brown in New York City. He and his wife, Alice Lapin Brown, belong to Shearith Israel, a Conservative synagogue in Dallas where their young daughters, Elizabeth and Sarah, attend Hebrew school.

The work that won Goldstein and Brown the Prize is in cholesterol research. The Nobel Committee called their discovery a "milestone," saying that it had "revolutionized our

Nevada Easter Seal Society And KVBC-TV-3 Announce "Safe Halloween" Promotion

Sheriff John Moran hands out safe Halloween coupon books to Penny Anderson, J. C. Hardin, and Curtis Day. Safe Halloween books are sponsored by KVBC-TV3 and The Nevada Easter Seal Society in an effort to provide all children with a safe Halloween.

The Nevada Easter Seal Society will once again hold the "Safe Halloween" coupon book campaign for the month of October. Sponsored by KVBC TV-3 to benefit the Nevada Easter Seal Society, "Safe Halloween" is intended as a community service promotion designed to encourage safe, "tamper-proof" treats for children.

Coupon books, which have been produced by Nevada Easter Seal Society and KVBC TV-3, will contain thirteen different coupons from local area businesses recruited to participate in the campaign.

According to Nancy Kosik, Executive Director of Nevada Easter Seal Society, the companies participating in the project and the products they are offering are: Burger King, small french fry and 16 oz. soft drink; Carrows Restaurants, child's meal from children's menu; Farm Basket, a chicken leg, wing or thigh; Jack-In-The-Box, small hamburger; Pistol Pete's Pizza, small cheese pizza and a merry-go-round ride; Schlotz-
