Smith Moves To Block Arms Sale To Jordan

Congressman Larry Smith (D-Fla.) initiated a "Dear Colleague" letter aimed at blocking the Administration's attempt to sell advanced aircraft and air defense systems to Jordan. The letter was jointly signed by House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Dante Fascell (D-Fla.) and ten other Members of Congress.

"Direct bilateral negotiations are the best method to reach a peace settlement," wrote Smith. "When direct negotiations between Jordan and Israel actually go forward, then Congress should consider our most advanced weapons now, what incentive would Jordan have to further the peace process?"

The letter is based on an amendment to this year's foreign aid bill, also sponsored by Smith, which declares that if the President submits to Congress a Jordanian arms sale of advanced aircraft or new air defense systems, he must also certify Jordan's public commitment to negotiate promptly and directly with Israel under the basic tenets of U.N. Security Council Resolution 242 and 338.

Smith, along with other Members of Congress supporting the bill, do not think the President can issue such a certification. "I have heard nothing new from King Hussein in the past week," said Smith, "and I do not believe he has made any significant movement toward entering into direct negotiations with Israel."

tive role in the peace process," concluded the letter. "We are also deeply concerned by King Hussein's continued call for an international conference, which would include the Soviets, Syrians, and the P.L.O. -- a proposal repeatedly rejected by both Israel and the United States."

The President is expected to send the formal notification to Congress within the next 20 days. Congress then has 30 days to pass a joint resolution disapproving the sale.

Kosher Culinary Tour Introduced By Hilton International Hotels In Israel And Hartours Of Boston

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- "Learning the Art of Kosher Cuisine" -- the only culinary tour of its kind -- has been created by the Jerusalem and Tel Aviv Hiltons in conjunction with Hartours, Inc. of Boston.

Four departures -- December 6, 1985, January 2 and 23, and February 20, 1986 -- are scheduled for the eight-night programs.

Highlight of the tour is the series of five lessons in "gourmet" Kosher cuisine, taught by Jerusalem Hilton Executive Chef Avigdor Brueh and Tel Aviv Hilton Executive Chef Kurt Waser.

The three lessons in Jerusalem and the two in Tel Aviv will focus on the use of Kosher ingredients in the creation of classic "gourmet" dishes; the sophisticated presentation of traditional foods; and the introduction to an emerging Israeli cuisine which uses an interesting array of Israeli-grown poultry, seafood and produce.

Chef Brueh was Israel's first "sabrah" -- native born -- hotel executive chef. After training at Israel's Tadmor Hotel School, he worked at Hilton International hotels in Rotterdam, London, Tel Aviv, Vienna and Montreal. He also studied with respected French restaurateur Jacques LeDivellec in Las Rochelle, France.

Chef Waser is a native of Switzerland, where he began his training at the Palace Hotel in St. Moritz. He also worked on several luxury liners and in international hotels around the world.

The inclusive tour price of $1,350 covers roundtrip airfare between New York or Boston and Tel Aviv based on El Al Israel Airlines' "Sunshine Fare;" four nights at the Jerusalem Hilton and three nights at the Tel Aviv Hilton, including tax and service charges; full Israeli breakfast daily; five cooking lessons with the Hilton chefs; a gala farewell banquet with appropriate wines; sightseeing by private, air-conditioned motorcoach with the services of a licensed, English-speaking guide; and all transfers, baggage handling and entrance fees.

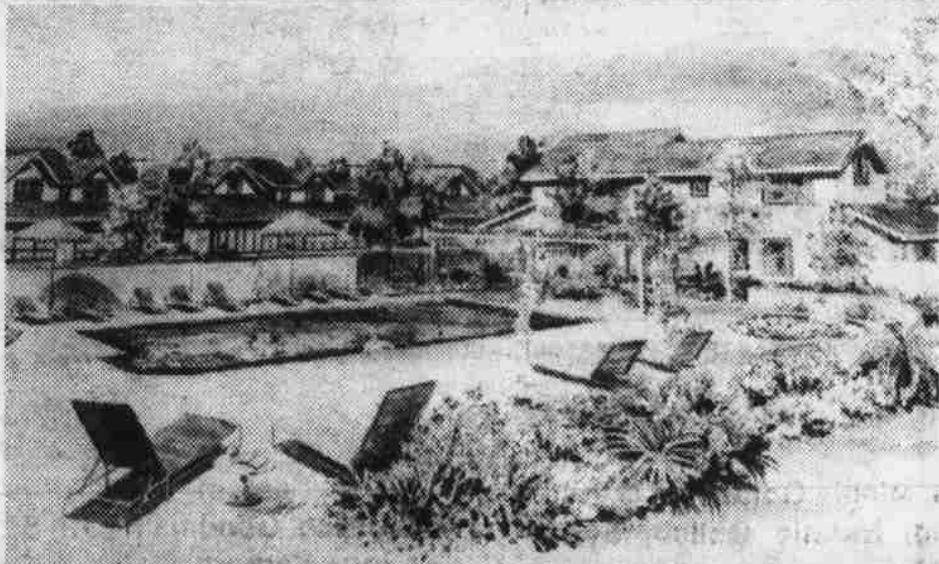

The tour price is based on twin occupancy; single supplement is $275. For an additional supplement, Hartours can also arrange for additional nights in Israel, with or without sightseeing; four-to-eight night excursions to Egypt; and upgrades to business class or first class on El Al flights.
