

Don't Miss "Jubilee!"
At The MGM

One of the reasons Donn Arden's "JUBILEE!" in the Ziegfeld Theatre of the MGM Grand Hotel has been called "The Show of the Decade" is because of the inclusion of such MGM special effects as the Sinking of the Titanic. "Jubilee!" is presented twice a night, at 7:30 and 11 p.m., and the production is Adults Only.

Las Vegas Israelite
Box Office Opens For Fall
Program And Nutcracker

Tickets for NEVADA DANCE THEATRE's Fall program, "DIVERTISSEMENT," October 24 to 27 are on sale now at the Artemus W. Ham Concert Hall box office.

An entertaining program of 5 unique ballets features the dramatic "Mantodea," (pictured above), with guest artist, Christopher Boatwright, the funny 1920's ballet "Jelly Roll Blues" as well as "L'Art de la Danse," "La Luna" and "Fresh Aire." Performances are at 8 p.m. October 24 to 27 and 2 p.m. Sunday the 27th.

Tickets for "The Nutcracker" (December 12 to 23) will also be on sale during this week of October 21 to 27. They are being offered early as a convenience for those people buying October tickets, and also hopefully to help alleviate the lines at the box office when sales resume.

The box office hours are 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and one hour before performances. For information and reservations call 739-3801.

CBS To Televis Program On Jewish Education

NEW YORK -- A half-hour television program, filmed at the recent Tenth Annual Conference on Alternatives in Jewish Education, will be broadcast by the CBS-TV network on Sunday, Nov. 3, as part of the weekly series For Our Times.

"To the best of our knowledge, this is one of the few times that a TV network has devoted a full program to the subject of Jewish education," said Eliot Spack, National Director of the Coalition for Alternatives in Jewish Education (CAJE), sponsor of the conference.

In New York City, station WCBS-TV will carry the program on Nov. 3 at 8:30 a.m. Other CBS-TV stations around the country may show it on other days, at other times, or not show it at all. Because each local station has these options, Jewish Federations, Community Relations Councils, Boards of Jewish Education, synagogues, and other groups concerned with religious education are being urged to contact their local CBS-TV station to express their interest in seeing the program.

"We hope that the program will attract an audience of both Jews and non-Jews," declared Dr. Spack, "because we are all facing many of the same problems in bringing religious education to today's young people, and we believe that some of the ways CAJE is addressing these problems may be applicable to other situations as well."

Directed by two-time Emmy Award winner, Chalmers Dale, the program aims to encapsulate both the spirit and substance of the unique five-day conference that brought almost two thousand Jewish educators from the U.S. and nine other countries to the campus of Northern Illinois University last August.

It stresses the rapport and cooperation that existed among the participants, who represented the entire Jewish ideological spectrum, from Orthodox to Reform.
