Take stock in America.

That huge rodeo shindig underway has the business community and resorts chomping at the bit to rope some of the estimated $44,000,000 dumped into the economy through Sunday. Only 120 contestants - cowmales & cowfems (they're not boys & girls y'know) - remain out of the 6000 who began the '85 season in Odessa, Texas, riding and roping for hunks of $1,790,000 in prize money. In that made-over arena for the rodeo usually the home of JERRY TARKANIAN's hot UNLV runnin' Rebels cage team, the wags are saying hoofs are replacing hoops...Nevada needs to "piggyback" more with California, said JAMES ROGERS, veep of marketing for Harrah's West.
