

Wayne Newton Joins Cerebral Palsy Telethon

For the first time, eminent singer-entertainer, Wayne Newton will be the special guest host of the "Weekend With the Stars Telethon for Cerebral Palsy," January 18-19, beginning Saturday night at 8:00 P.M. on station KTNV, TV 13.

Newton, who performs in Las Vegas 30 weeks and is on tour 3 months a year, will be spending 21 hours "giving his most important performance." Said Newton, "If we all work together we can raise the money needed so that research can be done to find a way to eliminate these disabilities.

Newton is also a breeder of prize winning Arabian horses. To raise money for United Cerebral Palsy Associations he will be auctioning two of his foals. His collection of Aramus Arabians is considered one of the top five Arabian herds in the world.

Other co-hosts of the Telethon are John Ritter and Henry Winkler, neither of whom are newcomers to this broadcast. Ritter hosted the first West Coast origination and Winkler is enjoying his seventh year of involvement with the show. Their counterparts on the East Coast are Florence Henderson, Dennis James and Scott Baio, all of whom welcome Mr. Newton to the Telethon. United Cerebral Palsy is a voluntary nationwide association of state and local affiliates and the national organization.

UCP provides a broad range of services to individuals whose lives are affected by cerebral palsy and sponsors research and educational programs to enhance scientific and public knowledge about cerebral palsy.

Cerebral palsy is a condition caused by damage to the brain occurring before, during, or shortly after birth. It can show itself by awkwardness of gait and other motor problems, learning difficulties, behavioral problems, as well as additional dysfunctions and combinations of disabilities. It is not progressive, communicable, nor generally life threatening.

Terrorist Incidents Mark Fatah's 25th Anniversary

JERUSALEM (WNS) — A number of terrorist incidents in Jerusalem and the occupied territories took place in the past few days, as the Fatah terrorist organization prepared to mark its 25th anniversary.

An explosive charge detonated a few hundred meters from the main gate of the Central Command headquarters, north of Jerusalem. There were no casualties, nor property damage from the explosion, which occurred in an open field.

Police in Jerusalem safely detonated what they described as a medium-sized bomb planted at the entrance to the central bus station. It was exploded by remote control and caused slight damage to a nearby bus stop. No one was hurt because police had cleared the area. The bomb, concealed in a nylon bag, aroused the suspicions of police Sgt. Yehuda Bachar who promptly summoned the bomb squad.

Security forces conducted several preventive arrests of public figures in the territory suspected that they might incite the population. Leaflets in solidarity with PLO, condemning any cooperation with Israel, were distributed at several locations in Judaea and Samaria. In addition, the security forces also put under administrative detention five persons, residents of Samaria, suspected of having collaborated with terrorist organizations. Security forces also wounded a young resident of the village of Deir Astiya in the Nablus region, after he failed to obey orders to halt. This was the second such incident this week. Two Hebron residents were slightly wounded when the army shot at their legs, after they allegedly ignored an order to halt.

In Hebron, a curfew imposed on the central square after an Israeli was shot there remained in effect. In Nablus, the A-Najah University has been closed for the duration of the week by its Board of Governors who explained that the action was due to student elections. It was believed, however, that the Board wanted to prevent clashes between students and security forces on the anniversary of Fatah's founding.

Meanwhile, terrorists failed to carry out several attempted attacks in the Gaza area. A hand grenade was thrown into the headquarters of the civil administration, but did not explode. It was detonated safely by an Israel Defense Force sapper. There was also an unexplained burst of automatic gunfire near the civil administration headquarters.

Tark And Lite Stars At D.I.

A reception was recently held at the Desert Inn for the Annual Lite Rebel Round-Up Basketball Tournament. Present from the Lite "All-Star" team were former Pittsburgh Steelers' defensive tackle L.C. Greenwood (left) and former Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers linebacker Jack "Hacksaw" Reynolds (center). Greenwood was part of the Steeler "iron curtain" defense that won three Super Bowls in a row while Reynolds played on the 49ers team that won the Super Bowl twice. The Lite stars presented UNLV Rebel head coach Jerry Tarkanian (right) with the official 1985 Lite Rebel Round-Up jacket. The Rebels won the tournament, which featured teams from San Diego State, Iona College and the University of Florida.

Las Vegas Chamber Players Present A Percussion Spectacular Featuring Two Premieres - Sunday January 19 - 2:00 P.M. - UNLV

An exciting event will take place on Sunday, January 19 at 2:00 P.M. when the LAS VEGAS CHAMBER PLAYERS present a spectacular percussion concert in UNLV's Black Box Theatre. In an unusual switch, the audience will be surrounded by musicians for the world premiere of Leonid Hrabovsky's "Constanti" for 6 percussionists, 4 pianists and solo violin. The extraordinary configuration of the instrumentalists will give listeners a cineramic feel for the music and a sense of participation usually felt only by performing musicians.

LEONID HRABOVSKY is one of the pioneers of the Soviet avant-garde: that first generation of post-Stalinist composers which broke new ground and coined the phrase "the renaissance of the new." He was born in 1935 in Kiev, Ukrainian S.S.R. and studied at the Kiev Conservatory with Boris Lyatoshinsky. He achieved considerable success and was admired by the grand old man of Soviet music, Dmitri Shostakovich.

Also featured on the January 19 concert will be the United States premiere of VIKTOR SUSLIN's Sonata for Violoncello and Percussion with cellist Patricia Satalof and "Misterioso" for 7 percussionists by the brilliant Soviet composer SOFIA GUBAIDULINA. In addition, the classic Toccata by CARLOS CHAVEZ will be performed and clarinetist William Powell will be soloist in "Folk Songs" by the young American composer MARK MANTEL.

Because of limited seating availability due to the unusual instrumental configurations reservations should be made soon by calling the Las Vegas Symphony office at 739-3420.
