The AMRANIM brothers are third generation Israelis of Yemenite descent. They have been singing together since childhood, and are now specializing in concerts of authentic folk music of Yemenites, Bukharians, Persian Jews and other ethnic groups now living in Israel.

Since 1966 the AMRANIM have successfully completed tours throughout Europe, Canada, the U.S.A., Mexico and South America. They were featured performers in the Israel Government's annual Shalom Revue and have often been praised as good will ambassadors for their country.

As popular folk artists, the AMRANIM have performed at Caesar's Palace here in Las Vegas, together with Alan King, Jerry Lewis and a host of other celebrities, and were part of Frank Sinatra's Caravan to Israel.

More important, the AMRANIM appear regularly in song festivals and on T.V. both in Israel and abroad. Their numerous records represent a unique mixture of traditional and contemporary sounds of Israel, including their original compositions. They specialize in authentic presentations of the various cultures comprising Israel.

“They were definitely the highlight of our program. Faculty and students alike commented on the excellence of their performance and have suggested that we bring them back next year. In addition to their wonderful voices and very appropriate repertoire they were also very pleasant and truly served as ‘Goodwill Ambassadors’ for Israel.”
