Five Tourists Killed

"Captive Nations Week"
Proclaimed At
The White House

Recently, President Reagan signed the proclamation designating Captive Nations Week. During the ceremony, the President cited the "spiritual bond between the citizens of our country and all people everywhere who yearn for

TEL AVIV (WNS) — A woman tourist from Canada was among five relatives killed in a road accident on the Negev road to Eilat. She was identified as Leanne Ochiyon but further details, including her home town and age, were not immediately available.

Also killed in the accident were her aunt, Ita Ochiyon, 38, and her three cousins Sagit, 14, Ariella, 12, and Shani, 5. Her uncle Albert Ochiyon, 40, with whom she had been visiting at their home in Beersheba, who had been driving their car at the time of the accident, was injured and is hospitalized.

Police said the car appeared to have swerved off the roadway, hit the side of a road culvert and fallen some 10 feet into a ditch, where it burst into flames.

The accident was the latest in a series of road accidents the same week, in which over a score of people were killed and many more injured.

Police said there did not appear to be any specific linking or common reason for the sudden spate of fatal road accidents — apart from the heat wave and the narrow roads.

TELL TALES

"One Man Plus The Truth Constitutes A Majority"

(Editor's Note: Congratulations & Mazel tov to Hal Ober who was just appointed a member of the Environmental Commission for the State of Nevada by Governor Richard Bryan. He is a credit to our community and we asked him to write a guest Tell Tales.)

My Favorite Subject

By Hal Ober, President of the Jewish Federation of Las Vegas

When Mike asked me to do this column, he indicated that the subject matter was mine to select. This, of course, made it all the more difficult to zero in on a topic that was both important to me, and of some possible interest to the readers of this unique publication. After much reflection, I decided on one of my favorite subjects — my Father.

My Father has been gone almost twelve years now. By ordinary standards, he didn't leave much of an estate. But oh, - what a legacy he left to those who knew and loved him...

He was a bright man. After emigrating to this country at the age of twelve, he attended night school, where he completed a four year course in just one and a half years. And typical of the work ethic inherent to his generation, he spent forty-five years in the same job.

He was a gentle, kind man, who gloried in the accomplishments of his family. Although trapped raising a family of three children during the depression years, he often skipped lunches to make sure that there would be enough money to give his children music lessons.

But, most important, he taught us the true meaning of charity. I can remember as a small child, taking charity items to school. Dad always said that 'when you give what you can afford, it isn't really charity. Charity is only when you give what you can't afford.' He gave what he couldn't afford. He gave money; he gave his time; and he gave his heart.

I am often asked why I get so involved in both charitable work and community affairs, and if running my company doesn't keep me busy enough? Sure it does. I guess I could answer as so many do, that we who have gained so much from this community owe an obligation to give something back. And that would be true. But I guess the real reason is that I'm my Father's son.

So - Here's to you, Dad!
