

30,000 Attend Chassidic Wedding In New York

NEW YORK — More than 30,000 guests attended the wedding of two young Hasidic Jews in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. Thousands of others lined the sidewalks to have a glimpse of the newlyweds and the ceremony that marked the union of two sects of the Hasidic movement.

The bride was Sara Esther Rokaech, the 18-year-old daughter of Rabbi Meyer Rokaech, the head of the Kozlov Hasidic movement. The bridegroom was Yosef Meisels, the 18-year-old grandson of Rabbi Moses Teitelbaum, the head of the Satmar community, considered one of the largest Hasidic groups in the world with at least 25,000 followers in Brooklyn.

About 80 buses were chartered to shuttle guests between Boro Park and Williamsburg and more than 140 ushers and 50 attendants were used to supervise the event and the seating arrangements at the dinner. The police closed off streets for the night.

The newlyweds will reportedly live in Boro Park. According to friends of the couple, the two will not go on a honeymoon because the Hasidic tradition does not have provisions for it.

Statement Of Turkish Ambassador To The United States Sukru Elekdag Regarding Terrorist Attack On Istanbul Synagogue

A barbaric and despicable aggression was perpetrated against the congregation of the Neva Shalom Synagogue in Istanbul, Turkey. More than 20 people lost their lives, and there are many wounded.

The preliminary information reaching us indicates that two terrorists gained entrance to the Synagogue under the guise of being photographers and threw bombs at the worshippers gathered there. The attackers themselves were killed by the explosions. According to the semi-official Turkish Anatolian News Agency, a terrorist organization calling itself the "Islamic Resistance Front" made a declaration in Beirut to the effect that they are responsible for the bombing and they have done it to avenge Israel's occupation of Lebanon.

The Turkish Government promptly convened an extraordinary meeting headed by Prime Minister Ozal, and issued a declaration vigorously condemning the wanton attack, vowed to take all necessary measures to identify and apprehend the culprits, and reiterated its conviction that the events which occurred in Pakistan and in Turkey have demonstrated, once again, all countries must act as one in order to fight international terrorism effectively.

Reports from the cities throughout Turkey confirm this cowardly attack on Jewish Turks has saddened and infuriated the whole Turkish nation.

People of the Jewish faith fleeing persecution and oppression elsewhere have for the last five centuries found a haven of welcome and tolerance in Turkey. During the darkest periods of Jewish history, Turkey has opened its arms to Jews irrespective of their place of origin when doors elsewhere were closed to them. Jewish Turks, no less than Turks of any other faiths, are integral members of the Turkish nation. The terrorists should know that all citizens of Turkey are determined to bring them to justice.
