

JEWISH NEWS BRIEFS

TORONTO (WNS) — Two Jewish members of the Canadian chess team scheduled to play at the international Chess Olympiad in Dubai November 13-December 3 will not attend because Israel has been excluded from competition, and for security reasons. The Chess Federation of Canada had earlier protested Israel's exclusion, but has found two replacements and will still compete.

TEL AVIV (WNS) — The first attempt to climb a Himalayan mountain by a team of Israeli mountain climbers is due to get under way shortly, following the receipt of permission from the Nepal government in Katmandu. An eight-member team will try the ascent of Mount Kangchutse, about 28,000 feet high, in the northeast of Nepal and only slightly lower than Mount Everest.

MONTREAL (WNS) — The Canadian Jewish Congress has protested to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney against the presence of the PLO at the executive meeting at the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) which opened in Montreal. In a telegram, the CJC urged the Prime Minister to bar the PLO from Canada "because their presence here endangers the Jews of Canada."

HARARE, Zimbabwe (WNS) — The final declaration of the eighth summit of the non-aligned countries, which was held here recently, included repeated condemnations of Israeli policies and continued support for the "struggle against Zionism," the WJCongress reported.
