Proceedings Dropped Against Persons Responsible For Ghoulish Parlor Game

BONN (JTA) — The State Prosecutor in Darmstadt has dropped proceedings against unknown parties responsible for a ghoulish parlor game which sends pawns representing Jews to Nazi death camps, because no clues to their identity have been found after nearly a year of investigation, it was announced recently.

A spokesman for the Prosecutor said it is likely that the games were manufactured in the United States. If so, it might take years to gather evidence, by which time the perpetrators would benefit from the statute of limitations.

Copies of the board game were mailed anonymously to 70 schools all over West Germany at the beginning of the year. The parcels were post-marked in Darmstadt.

care, recreation and medical and legal counseling. About 4,000 of the co-op's residents are Jewish.

In Buffalo, N.Y., the newly created Western New York Human Services Consortium -- which includes the Buffalo Jewish Community Center -- has received an $8,000 United Way grant to provide for training of personnel serving the elderly.

The consortium requested funds based on the findings of a study conducted by the Florence G. Heller-JWB Research Center in cooperation with the Jewish community centers of Greater Philadelphia. The study concluded that clinically depressed elderly could be identified easily and helped through counseling.
