The University Library Society has organized a series of fundraising events for the week preceding Valentine's Day, Feb. 8-14, to raise money for UNLV's James R. Dickinson Library.

A dessert-and-champagne reception will kick off "Love Your University Library Week" on Feb. 8, 4-6 p.m., in the Dickinson Library lobby. The event is open to the public; tickets cost $15.

Other events include a series of dinners and cocktail parties hosted by UNLV alumni, local community members, and friends of the library. The party hosts will invite friends to their homes and ask the guests to contribute to the library.

According to Hal Erickson, co-chairman of the campaign, a university library is a research library. The facility usually contains one copy of a wide variety of books, whereas a community library may contain many copies of best sellers.

The Roman Motor Corporation line, according to John Trotman, president, "is the lowest priced...complete line of new cars and multi-purpose vehicles sold in America -- from $3,980 to $8,406."
