

Journalists Pledge Never To Forget In U.S. Capitol Days Of Remembrance Ceremony

CBS Anchorman Dan Rather introduces a recording of Edward R. Murrow's eyewitness radio broadcast of the liberation of Buchenwald in 1945 at a ceremony April 28 in the U.S. Capitol Rotunda sponsored by the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council. Murrow (posthumously), and Fred W. Friendly were awarded the Council's 1987 Eisenhower Liberation Medal for their role in telling the world about the Nazi death camps. Seated behind Rather are, from left, Council Vice Chairman William J. Lowenberg, Council Chairman Harvey M. Meyerhoff, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, Council Member Sigmund Strochlitz, Senator John C. Danforth, and Council Member Benjamin Meed. Friendly is to the right of the podium.

Only to be crushed
Like the heart of my loved ones
Under the Nazi boot.

IV: A Jewish Man of Today

Looking back and wondering,
How did I survive?
A hell on earth --
In revenge,
Destroyed by distrust
Smothered by emptiness,
We were accounted as sheep for the slaughter.
Reality remains
Too hard to imagine,
So long ago, haunting me now.
A destiny to die together
Because of our birthright.
Why didn't someone warn us?
One percent of a population
Strangled in the hands of one man.

V: A Judge at Nuremberg

I sit on the Nuremberg bench
Observing cold, stone faces,
No downcast eye, rueful,
They wear badges of the past,
Protected by a government
Which condoned sterilization,
Torture, starvation and
Finally -- death.
Torn by the integrity of the witnesses
Who whisper of horrors still inside them,
My gaze travels from the haunted and hurt
To these -- other humans?

VI: My Voice

I stand aghast
Looking at an attempt at annihilation
A vulnerable race

Caught in a vice of history and hate.
The lesson I learn is Love,
"Love your neighbors -- all neighbors --
As yourself"
So that anger never become violence.
Choose leaders carefully
Men who represent truth,
Firm,
Yet willing to make concessions,
Strong --
Yet having a caring heart.
Then peace can heal memories
That still torment minds.
Let us listen to the voices -- and learn.
