By saving baby food labels, Las Vegans have the opportunity to benefit children's medical services at University Medical Center of Southern Nevada.

Through a program originated by the H.J. Heinz Co. Foundation, each of the company's baby food labels that is collected and mailed to the University Medical Center Foundation is worth six cents toward the purchase of needed medical equipment.

Las Vegans using Heinz baby food products are encouraged to save the labels and mail them to the University Medical Center Foundation, Heinz Baby Food Label Savings Program, 1800 W. Charleston Blvd., Las Vegas, Nevada 89102.

All funds received through this program will help support the pediatric medical programs at University Medical Center, Southern Nevada's largest not-for-profit hospital and the state's major clinical campus.

The American Cancer Society will hold its regular "Fresh Start," Stop Smoking Clinic four times each month. Programs begin the second and fourth Monday of each month at both noon and 6:00 p.m. and are held for four consecutive days. This program is free to the public. It is held at the Ross and Coletta Miller Cancer Education Center at 1325 E. Harmon. Anyone interested is urged to call 798-6877 to register.

UNLV's six national sororities will conduct their fall membership drive Sept. 1-4 on campus.

Female university students who are interested in joining a sorority can contact the Student Activities Office at 739-3221. The early registration deadline is Aug. 25.

The national sororities that will be rushing this fall are Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Zeta, Sigma Kappa, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

All six organizations stress scholastic achievement, philanthropic endeavors, and campus involvement.

For the first time ever, Clark County's gaming properties directly employ more than 100,000 people, according to the Nevada Employment Security Department's latest figures.

Gaming's employment gains in Clark County bring the total number of jobs for Nevada's largest employer to 151,400 statewide.

From theatre classics to world premieres, the 1989-90 University Theatre season will bring Las Vegas audiences a mixture of music, drama, romance, and wit.

UNLV's theatre arts department will present six plays, including William Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost" and Neil Simon's "Broadway Bound."

Season tickets are now available. The cost for all six shows is $36, or $25 for the four productions performed in Judy Bayley Theatre. General admission for each performance is $7; special discounts are available for senior citizens, students, military personnel, and the handicapped. For more information, call 739-3353.

The Optimist Club of Sparks and the American Diabetes Association, Nevada Affiliate are sponsoring children afflicted with diabetes for a week-long camp in August. Camp Tahoe, located in Stateline, Nevada, provides diabetes education for children ages 8 through 13. Through the interaction with other children with diabetes, children learn basic concepts of diabetes management and gain a better understanding of the importance of good treatment and care. Volunteer medical professionals and members of the ADA run the project and assure constant supervision for the children with the camp staff.

The fee for one week is $250 (tee shirts and group pictures included) with partial and full sponsorship available through the ADA affiliate in Las Vegas. The camp is supported by fees and donations. For information on attending or sponsoring a child, write the American Diabetes Association at 4045 South Spencer, Suite A-62, Las Vegas, 89119, or call 369-9995. In Northern Nevada, contact the Optimist Club of Sparks, Inc., P.O. Box 5976, Sparks, Nevada 89432.

UNLV's Counseling and Testing Center has set up a recorded telephone message to provide public information on the various testing programs UNLV offers.
