ADL Urges Greece To Extradite Terrorist

NEW YORK — The Anti-Defamation League recently urged Greek Prime Minister Tzannis Tzannetakis to extradite to the United States Mohammed Rashid, the Palestinian wanted by the American government in connection with the 1982 bombing of a Pan American airliner in which one person was killed and 15 wounded.

In a letter to the Prime Minister, ADL national director Abraham H. Foxman labeled as "deeply disturbing" recent reports that Greek Justice Minister Fotis Kouvelis intends to block the extradition despite the decision by the Greek Supreme Court authorizing it. Mr. Foxman asserted:

"By blocking Rashid's extradition your government not only provides a safe harbor to an accused criminal but also tells the world that Greece is willing to shield terrorists so they can escape the consequences of their actions."

The ADL leader pointed out that "failure to oppose terrorism not only compromises a nation's political strength and independence but also encourages terrorists to continue their campaigns of violence and intimidation."

JERUSALEM (JTA) — An Arab worker stabbed his Jewish employer in the arm and chest recently but caused only moderate wounds.

Police later arrested a 28-year-old Palestinian suspect who had worked at the factory. His identity was not disclosed, though he was said to be from Bir Zeit, in the West Bank.

The incident, at the Atarot industrial area north of Jerusalem, near Ramallah, occurred when the worker walked in to the office of Eliezer Sobol and told him he would not be able to come to work. When Sobol asked for the reason, the long-time worker took out a knife, stabbed him and escaped from the plant.

Sobol, who lives in the West Bank settlement of Maccabim, suffered moderate wounds in the upper arm muscle and superficial wounds in the chest. He was described in fair condition at Hadassah Hospital on Mount Scopus.

The 39-year-old Sobol expressed shock at the incident. "We've worked together for six or seven years already, and there have never been any tensions," he said.

American Policy

Statement By The Zionist Organization Of America

We are saddened by the death of Lt. Col. Higgins, and we have great sympathy for all victims and families of victims of terrorism. In our frustration and anger, we must not fall into the trap of placing the blame on the friends of the United States, especially Israel who has bravely and courageously led the fight against terrorism throughout the world.

Only recently a Palestinian Arab forced a bus over a cliff near Jerusalem resulting in fourteen (14) civilians dead, including Rita Susan Levine, a leader of ZOA's Young Zionist Group in Philadelphia. What if an ultimatum was issued by one of the terrorist groups, be it from Iran or the PLO, that unless the Arab who committed this crime is freed, Israeli hostages would be killed? Under those circumstances, should Israel free the criminal?

What if the ultimatum for the release of this Arab criminal included the threat to kill American hostages? Would some Americans, like Senator Robert Dole, hold Israel responsible for this act of international blackmail?

Not only are these real possibilities for the future, but to equate Israeli action with crimes which known terrorists have committed is a dangerous policy. The New York Times in its editorial, August 1, 1989, states the issue clearly and with considerable understanding, especially the following observations:

"As a matter of principle and common sense, Israel and other nations subjected to terrorism have a right to preemptive and punitive action. Yes, that includes military operations for both rescue of hostages or kidnapping of terrorists. Yes, there are risks, sometimes tragic, for the innocent. Without that right of self-defense, civilized nations would all be held hostage by the most brutal."

Should Israel be held responsible for the safety of all hostages — even when Israel takes actions in
