

It's Back To Business As Usual For Tanker Detained In Egypt

TEL AVIV (JTA) — It was back to business as usual recently for the Israeli tanker Nyuta and its crew, after three weeks of detention by Egypt for allegedly spilling oil in the Gulf of Suez last month.

government-owned fleet that shuttles Egyptian oil to Israel, returned to its home port of Eilat and was off again on a 15-hour voyage to pick up more Egyptian crude.

The Nyuta was arrested by the Egyptian authorities on Oct. 21 and remained at the East Zeid Bay oil port until Nov. 10.

Israeli shipping circles estimate that 21-day delay cost the tanker $350,000 apart from the loss of business it suffered by being unable to deliver some 200,000 tons of oil it would have brought to Israel during that period.

In addition, Israel posted a $1.5 million bond to guarantee that the Nyuta's master, Capt. Zvi Yosef, will appear at a maritime court in A-Tur, Egypt, on Dec. 5, for trial on charges of contaminating Egyptian waters.
