

Egypt Can't Represent Palestinians In Talks With Israel, Arafat Insists

speculated that the PLO is pursuing a double-edged strategy of giving the Egyptians a green light privately while publicly insisting that the PLO must be involved in selecting the Palestinian delegation that will negotiate with Israel.

Having won acceptance by both Egypt and Israel of the five-point plan, Baker is now trying to arrange a meeting in Washington with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Arens and Egyptian Foreign Minister Esmat Abdel Meguid.

The meeting, expected to take place early in the new year, will discuss ways of bringing about the preliminary talks, including the selection of the Palestinian delegation.

Making Peace With The Enemy

Arafat said that the three foreign ministers are free to discuss the camp David agreements. "But if they are speaking about the Palestinians, the Palestinians have to represent themselves. I have nothing to do with this meeting."

During the interview, Arafat frequently answered questions by asking questions of his own. He said, for instance, "I would like to ask if there is a Soviet Union-American delegation, can you accept that the Soviet Union government will designate the American delegation?"

"The Palestinians and their leadership have the right to designate their representatives as well as the Israeli government," he maintained.

Israeli leaders have steadfastly rejected any negotiations with the PLO. But Arafat asked, "With whom are they going to make peace? I am going to make peace with my enemy."

He said that when the United States agreed to open a dialogue with the PLO in December 1988, Washington accepted "that the PLO represents the Palestinian people."

"I just bought my last new phone system."

State Of The Art Telephone System (Made In Israel) For Your Business Or Office

From 2-20,000 Lines

"Three times, my company's grown beyond our system capacity. Three times I've had to junk my phone system and buy a new one."

Growth is something every company works to achieve. But growth can hurt — when phone systems have to be discarded — and new ones installed — in order to meet growing needs.

"My phone consultant told me about Tadiran..."

Tadiran systems bring to reality what others only promise. More capabilities, more user-friendly features and an easy, affordable pathway for growth. It's that simple — no more new system again.

"Now I've got everything I want in a phone system... plus some major advantages the others didn't offer."

Tadiran supports industry standard phones, integrated keysets, modular compatibility for upward growth, true voice and data integration, and even includes a built-in IBM PC network. All backed by an excellent service and maintenance policy.

"The way I see it, if you're going to buy a system, buy it only once."

Call us today for a no-obligation demonstration and proposal. It's a call you'll only need to make once.
