The University of Nevada, Las Vegas will go on the air with its own cable television channel sometime in the spring, thanks to a donation from Prime Cable of Las Vegas, UNLV President Robert C. Maxson announced recently.

The local cable television company is providing the university with access to a cable TV channel, which will broadcast, among other programming, the proceedings of Clark County Commission and Las Vegas City Council meetings, as well as Congressional and educational programming, Maxson said.
