

New Programs For UNLV Students

The Jewish Student Union at UNLV will be sponsoring a "lunch and learn" series. The first session is scheduled on Tuesday, Apr. 16, 12:30-1:30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Rabbi Sanford Akselrad. Topic will be "Holocaust Revisionists: Are they a threat?"

Rabbi Shea Harlig will discuss "Heaven & Hell: Reincarnation, a traditional Jewish Perspective" on Wednesday, Apr. 24, 12:30-1:30 p.m.

UNLV Professor of Sociology, Dmitri Shalin, will discuss "Russian Jewry At The Crossroads," Tuesday, Apr. 30, 12:30-1:30 p.m.

Rabbi Richard Schachet will conduct a session on Wednesday, May 1, 12:30-1:30 p.m. entitled "Worship Services Don't Have To Be Dull."

The Jewish students have shown a genuine need and interest in connecting with their Jewish identity during their college experience. It is through Federation's support that provides the Shabbat dinners and other programs for them," says Shelly Katz, JFS program coordinator. "It's exciting to see the students find the time to participate and be involved during their demanding work and school schedule."

school schedule."

Light refreshments will be served. For information please call Alon Ventura, president of the Jewish student Union, at the Interfaith center, 736-0887.
