GLORIOUS FOURTH

Amid Pomp, Glory, Eloquence and Nature's Beauty Vegas Celebrates.

BEALE A SPLENDID HOST

Judges Jeffereys and Brennan Orators of Distinction Deliver Addresses.

AFTER THIS ALL SORTS OF SPORTS.

The Fourth of July had a splendid and patriotic commemoration of its historic import at Las Vegas. The exercises were conducted beneath the cottonwood trees, and that luxuriance that notably distinguishes Harry R. Beale's resort, the oasis of the Vegas desert. All was done in accordance with the spirit of the day. In reverence and with enthusiasm the immortality of the day was framed. All harmonized to make the day in Las Vegas so commemorative and pleasant as to give it nobility.

Owing to the forethought and indefatigable activity of the host, Harry R. Beale, the people were transported to and from the place of exercises and sports free. Col. James E. Hill, one of our leading attorneys, was master of ceremonies, and in his introductory he dwelt with great force and eloquence on the spirit of the day, calling attention to the almost insurmountable barriers that strewed the pathway of progress in the development and settlement of our common country. He traced the spirit that has characterized this nation from its earliest days down to the present time, and admonished his vast audience of the necessity of incorporating the same zeal in the development of our present surroundings. After the orchestra had rendered "America," Col. Hill introduced the Rev. Dr. Robinson, who delivered a beautiful invocation. The reverend gentleman also led in singing America and The Star Spangled Banner; the assemblage joining in the heart-stirring and patriotic chorus. Chairman Hill then introduced Dr. Walker, the splendid gentleman and eloquentist, who with a sweet toned resonance, read the Declaration of Independence. The orchestra followed with Stars and Stripes. Judge Jeffereys, an orator of national repute and a great student of public questions and men was then introduced. The Judge was amply prepared and being fully imbued with the spirit of the fathers, delivered himself with masterful force on the vital questions of the day. He called attention to the magnificent courage of the signers of our immortal declaration. He eloquently treated such statesman-like questions as finance, mining, development of Nevada, resources, education, morality, and paid a deserved tribute to Senator W. A. Clark and Mrs. Helen M. Stewart. To Mrs. Stewart as the pioneer woman of Vegas we all owe gratitude, he declared. He characterized Senator Clark as a distinguished man, as a man of gigantic enterprise, of great business ability and as uncomparable in this respect. He declared that Clark's vast accumulations were acquired by honesty, shrewdness and superior ability; that Vegas is the result of Clark's constructive genius and were it not for Clark, we would not have railroad communication, and as a consequence only a Stewart ranch, and not a city of 2000 as Vegas has today.

"All Honor then is due Senator Clark who by his untiring industry and capital has caused bands of steel to be laid between Salt Lake and Los Angeles. Would to God that we had more men of the type of Senator Clark. His name will go down and shine bright on the pages of American history. It will pay the young men of the business world to sit up and burn the midnight oil to study the character and career of such a man as Senator Clark." He dwelt upon the achievements of the Montana Senator at length and exhorted the vast audience always to recognize the benefactions of this great man.

More music by the orchestra and then he tall and able presiding officer Mr. Hill introduced Judge Brennan, a man of pleasant appearance, carrying the impress of the orator in his countenance and the keen wit and eloquence of his race in all he does. He is a man of marked ability and reinforces this with a profound knowledge of man and national questions. The citizens of Las Vegas were treated to a degree of eloquence, wisdom and logic seldom heard from the platform. Judge Brennan treated his subject from the standpoint of contemporaneous history, and he said in part as follows: It is the duty of every citizen to take up the questions of the day and discuss them in his home. You men who complain of the existence or non existence of certain conditions are in yourselves to blame. You who give little or no attention to the degree of intelligence with which you cast your ballot, you are the corruptionists. The question of Japanese supremacy is one of interest to all parties and which should receive the careful attention of every patriotic American."

After these exercises most of the large assemblage took in the sports on the field below the ranch. The visitors were treated to all sorts of sports and every feature of amusement and enjoyment that follows in the train of such an eventful day. It was old glory all around.

In the tug of war contest the L. J. Clark team won. Prize $5.00. The winner in the ladies race is Mrs. Humphreys, Mrs. H. R. Beale, second. The contest between these fair lady sprinters created great excitement and enthusiasm. It was for $5.00. In the girls contest Mrs. Pearl Humphery, secured the trophy. It was $5.00. C. Myers has the credit in the 100
